

PLOT AGAINST CALLES

ROGERS FIGURES COOLIDGE WENT TO CORNER TO PHONE

(Special To The News)
NEW YORK, March 29.—
What do you know about Mr.
Hoover having to put a telephone in the office of the president at the White house?

Mr. Coolidge had been going down to the corner drug store to phone. That's Mr. Coolidge, though. He just figured John Quincy Adams a hard doily Madison didn't have any, so the thought of putting a phone in never entered his mind.

Here is another angle, too.
Maybe he had a phone in and took it out with him when he left.

Fifteen congressmen landed here yesterday from a wet port.
They only searched one of their baggage and found four quarts, and the other fourteen claimed immunity. And they shot a woman for having a half pint of home-made wine!

Yours,
WILL.

Three Nations In Fight For Ruling On Ship Sinking

Great Britain, Canada, And France Seek From United States

TWO TREATIES ARE BEING THREATENED

Sinking Of Rum Runner Off Coast By Coast Guard Boat Causes Issue

By PIERCE MILLER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson asserted today that the sinking of a rum runner off the coast of the United States threatens the two treaties of the American Government on the high seas in enforcing domestic laws.

He faces three nations, Great Britain, France and Canada, who with a united front, will make a drive with international law as their weapon, to settle definitely the scope of authority of the American Government on the high seas in enforcing domestic laws.
Indignation Aroused
The sinking of the I'm Alone, Canadian rum runner, and the killing of a French member of the crew, by the coast guard cutter Dexter, under command of Boatswain Frank Paul, a week ago today in the Gulf of Mexico, has brought down on the treasury department's chief prohibition agent, the coast guard, the indignation of the public of England, Canada and France, and has caused the state department considerable disquietude.

The controversy threatens to tear down two treaties affecting the British Empire and Canada. The first is the anti-smuggling treaty, and the other the border treaty Canada signed with the United States with reference to land rum smuggling.

Shenango Valley Hospital Is Functioning As Usual

For some reason or other the impression prevails at this time that patients are not being received at the Shenango Valley hospital. This is an error.

This hospital will function in all its departments and just as efficiently as ever until the day the new Jameson Memorial hospital is open to receive patients.

The entire equipment will remain intact in the Shenango Valley hospital because the new hospital will have entire new equipment.

At the present time there are in the hospital the largest number of new born babies that have ever been there at one time.

man J. H. Swick; And

President Of State Game Commission Enthusias Over Local Event

Over in the Valhalla of Sportsmen, Isaac Walton and Nimrod must have held a banquet here Thursday evening, March 28, for here on this well known mundane sphere, more particularly in New Castle, the fishermen and hunters joined in what was one of the largest sport banquets held in the state.

It was the annual banquet of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association and in addition to some 500 men and women who love the outdoors there were such distinguished guests as Congressman J. Howard Swick, Dr. Charles G. Jordan, secretary of agriculture; Ross M. Loeffler, president of the state game commission, and that prince of sportsmen, John M. Phillips, former president of the game commission, for whom the camp of the Lawrence county Boy Scouts was named. In addition to these were city, county and state officials.

Four "Principal" Speakers.
Usually a banquet has one "principal" speaker and several secondary speakers. This one had four principal speakers, for to set one out above the other would hardly do justice to the other three.

Congressman Swick was the first speaker called and he paid a splendid tribute to the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association, not only for being able to turn out such a remarkable crowd, but for the outstanding work it has done in the conservation of game and re-stocking of streams in this county. He mentioned the Nor-beck bill, which provides bird sanctuaries over the country for which he

Not in Accord.
Spokesmen for the farm organizations revealed that even the farmers themselves are not in accord over the proposed legislation. Higher tariffs, easier credits and farmer control of the federal land bank system were the changes upon which the farmers agreed. They quarreled, however over the equalization fee, the proposed farmer's stabilization corporation and the plan to lend government funds to cooperative associations all over the country.

Changes Suggested.
The American farm bureau federation held out for the equalization fee.
A group of cooperative associations suggested changes in the federal land bank system, which would give farmers actual control of these banks and their credit facilities. The grain growers' associations of mid-western states opposed the equalization fee and called for easier credit facilities so they could carry on their own operations with government aid. The existing cooperatives protested against increasing their number but asked government aid for themselves.

Out of this vortex of contrary proposals the two committees will have to draft bills acceptable not only to farmers but to the Hoover administration as well. One additional handicap in this task has been the apparent lack of cooperation between the two committees with the development of the legislation.

The fact that Lawrence County Council, Boy Scouts of America, will send the largest delegation of any council in the United States to the International Boy Scout conference in England this summer, will mean unusual and very favorable publicity for this city and county.

This fact was discussed by the board of directors of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce at their meeting held at The Castleton at noon Thursday.

In the discussion, it was learned that the delegates going from the

Throughout the nation today the devout are commemorating the supreme sacrifice of Christ.

Today is Good Friday on the Christian calendar. It marks the anniversary of the day on which Jesus Christ of Nazareth was nailed to the cross of calvary and the crown of thorns put upon his head.

On the third day he arose from the dead—Easter Sunday.
Protestant and Catholic churches alike are holding special Good Friday services. Masses were said in the Catholic churches during the morning hours with many presenting the fourteen stages of the cross during the afternoon. Numerous of the protestant churches which had joined in holding fifteen mid-day services, will unite again at noon day for holy communion and other special services.

Appropriate Easter cantatas will be sung throughout the nation at the Good Friday services tonight.

Salesman Under Arrest, Held As Girl's Abductor

Philadelphia Salesman Arrested In North Carolina With 12-Year Old Girl

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—Carlos Deonshire, 37-year-old Philadelphia salesman, was arrested early today in Charlotteville, N. C., in company with Alice Labuvis, 12-year-old missing West Philadelphia girl according to word received at police headquarters here. He was seized in a telephone office where he had been lured by a fake telegram.

Deonshire waived extradition and two Philadelphia detectives are enroute south to bring him back to this city. He insisted he had not harmed the girl in any way.

Walks Into Trap.
Police revealed they had learned yesterday that Deonshire had very little money when he left here so believing he might wire here for funds, the local telephone officers were asked to watch for messages from him.

Late last night a wire was received from Charlotteville by Deonshire's brother-in-law asking for money. A fake message was sent immediately saying the funds were forthcoming and police of the southern city notified. When Deonshire walked into a telephone station he walked into a police trap. He readily admitted his identity and quietly submitted to arrest.

"I must have been drunk when I took the child" he told police. "I never would have done it while I was sober."

Congregations To Be United

Pentecostal And German Pentecostal Assemblies Unite
On Sunday

Easter Sunday will be the day that will mark the uniting of the two Pentecostal assemblies of New Castle into one church body.

The German Pentecostal Assembly who have been conducting services at 238 West Grant street are united with the congregation of the Pentecostal Tabernacle on South street.
The assembly on Grant street have been working among the German speaking people of the city for a number of years.

In the early part of this present year the pastor, Rev. A. H. Wendi to whom the assembly was very devoted was taken by death and since that time the assembly has decided to unite their forces with the South street assembly as the majority of the German speaking people of the English language.

There will be German Sunday school classes and German service through the week for those who do not understand the English. The German speaking people of the city will be welcome at all of the services.

Just a year ago this month Mr. and Mrs. Norman Barth who were members of the assembly left the city to go to Japan where they are laboring as missionaries in the city of Tokyo. Having a great missionary spirit the German assembly has been very liberal in helping support these and a number of other missionaries in various mission fields.

In the near future a new church will be erected by the two assemblies who are uniting.

HUGHES IN PARTY
WITH PRESIDENT

For the first time since he was elected president of the United States Steel Corporation, James A. Farrell was an official visitor to New Castle on Thursday, coming here on a special train with a group of United States Steel, Carnegie Steel and American Sheet and Tin Plate officials.

With President Farrell were I. Lamont Hughes, a former New Castle man, now vice president of the United States Steel Corporation; Vice President John H. Huls, Chairman of the Board Myron C. Taylor and Controller W. J. Filbert, all of the United States Steel; Vice President John S.
Coursler, formerly of New Castle; Vice President A. M. Diehl and Vice President L. H. Burnett, all of the Carnegie Steel; Vice Presidents W. A.
Irvin and C. W. Bennett, R. E. Hammerman, assistant to the vice president, and G. C. Kimball, assistant to the vice president and chief engineer of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company.

An Official Inspection
At the offices of the Carnegie Steel Company it was stated today that the visit was purely an official one.
Reeves but he did not mean what the words implied but rather wanted to bring out the point that the money should have been invested in government bonds.

Reeves presented a motion which was not acted upon asking that the money which comes from foreign fire insurance for pension purposes be placed in government bond investments. It now amounts to about $40,000.

Tyler said that he believed that Burns should first give council a report and then council sitting as a pension board should act according to the information they received.

Burns then brought out the point that to invest the money in government bonds would bring the city about 3 percent whereas the city has to borrow money at about 6 percent.
He believes it would be a poor economical move. He said the late Solicitor Gardner had advised him that to invest the money that way would not

PA NEW OBSERVES

Martin Jensen, who broke the world's record for solo endurance flying at New York yesterday, is the flier who accompanied the state light to Hawaii, broke the solo endurance record, it was definitely stated here today.

Much confusion followed Jensen's landing shortly after 5:30 p. m., yesterday. It was generally believed that an aviation endurance mark had to be exceeded by a full hour before a new record was created. This does not hold in the case of the solo record, according to Harry Booth, Roosevelt Field representative of the National Aeronautic Association and the Federation Aeronautique Internationale.

Record Broken
There is no officially recognized record for solo flights as distinguished from any other endurance flight.
Booth said that he had checked the time of Jensen's flight and that, assuming as he had recorded the time for the N. A. A. that officially recognized Jensen's time with the Association.

Booth's figures show that Jensen stayed aloft eight minutes and twenty seconds longer than Lieut. Royal
V. Thomas who had held the record.
Since the record is not an official one it is not necessary to improve on it by an hour to set a new mark. Booth said.

Members of Company B, 125th Engineers, are concentrating all efforts this week toward the federal inspection planned for next Monday night.
Final arrangements are now being made and a preliminary inspection is booked for Sunday, Capt. Raymond

E. A. Fenton, supervising agent of the Erie and Ashtabula division of the Pennsylvania railroad, was just commencing his third year as a station employee of the Pennsylvania at North Bloomfield, O., the home of his nativity, when he was 21 years of age.

North Bloomfield is located in the Western Reserve, after which the Western Reserve university at Clevel-

been some question in Fenton's mind as to whether he would attend the Western Reserve university at Clevel-

ure deliberation he chose a railroad career, no doubt because he was a
"why fed" boy.

Twenty six years ago, while living in Youngstown, he decided that the blue laws of Pennsylvania were more in keeping with his early training than were those which were then prevalent in Ohio, so he moved to New

As Priest Steps From Church And Good Friday Service He Is Shot Down

CHICAGO, March 29.—The Rev. Chas. A. Erkens, 66, priest in the Church of the Holy Ghost, was shot and seriously wounded here today as he stepped from his church where he had celebrated mass at a Good Friday service.

The alleged would-be assassin was captured by a policeman. He gave the name of Gaetano Menna, 55, and told police his son was one of three boys arrested ten days ago charged with robbing the poor box of the church.

Continue Search For Missing "Spy" In DeKing Killing

AURORA, Ill., March 29.—Search for the mysterious "Boyd Fairchild," whose affidavit of alleged purchase of a pint of wine started the chain of circumstances which ended in the killing of Mrs. Lillian De King in her home here, today became the center of activity in the investigation.

"Fairchild," according to a statement by Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Schults, is the "undercover man" who obtained the original information against the De Kings.

Search by attorneys for the De King family has failed to show any "Boyd Fairchild" on the payroll of the state attorney's office as an investigator or in any other capacity. An attorney of that office, carried on the Kane county payroll as "chief investigator," told De King attorneys that there was no such person as "Fairchild."

Greensburg Dog Has Elaborate Funeral

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 29.—Teddy, valuable silver terrier, was in canine heaven today but not without all the formality that could be bestowed upon him by his grief-stricken owner, H. H. Ketterling, residing near here.

A casket, valued at $300 and handsomely floral pieces attended the last rites for the 15-year old dog while a Greensburg undertaker had charge of the "services" which were carried out with all formality.

The dog was interred in the Ketterling family plot in Union cemetery.

Torreon to kill the federal chieftain either in Torreon or in the field.

After the occupation of Torreon by the rebels Gen. Calles established his headquarters there.

Northwestern Sonora today became the center of the revolutionary arena as infantry and cavalry under command of General Jesus Borquez and General Rodolfo Reina advanced northward from Santa Ana through Altar Valley to handle the situation created by the reported federal offensive under General Abelardo Rodriguez.

Meanwhile a small detachment of rebels was moving in trucks from the Nogales garrison to Mesquite, 70 miles west, where Colonel Miguel Castillo, former Calles officer, was in control with a band of armed federal sympathizers in the name of the central government.

The objective of the Borquez-Reina force was Sonora, Sonora, about 200 miles west of Nogales, where Rodriguez, regulars from San Luis were reported in control. This rebel contingent may advance farther to recapture the western border town of San Luis from Rodriguez, according to General Francisco Borquez, commander of the Nogales garrison. The advance Rodriguez cavalry unit was reported at Sonora, while federal troops at Mesquite, directly across the border from Sasabe, Ariz., were only armed irregulars according to rebel headquarters here.

Enroute to Mesquite, the Nogales insurgents plan to capture Don Nadeu Ranch, 40 miles west, which late yesterday was occupied by a band of federal loyalists.

Borquez today told International News Service that the reported Rodriguez offensive was not of serious proportions, having been launched apparently to draw troops away from General Fausto Topete's forces now planning a drive on the federal garrison at Naco. Borquez also stated he expected to suppress the Mesquite and Don Nadeu Ranch uprisings with little difficulty.

The Chamber of Commerce recognizes the value of this to the city and is co-operating every way possible in order that the city may secure all the publicity possible. Film organizations are sending special camera men to record by picture the important events connected with the affair.

Progress is now in vogue at the site of the new North street bridge. Contractor John Byers' workmen are going after the job right and all indications point to an early completion of the span.

New Castle is assured of having the presence of some expert swimmers in the community this summer. For the past three days a Red Cross expert has been conducting examinations in local pools, giving to those who want to be examiners, real tests to determine their fitness. A number of young men and women were examined. They completed the work O. K.

Pa. News noticed the remnants of a straw hat lying in the street on North street this morning. We don't know whether some one was rushing the season and got uncrowned or not.

Suckers are beginning to run and New Castle fishermen are taking advantage of the fact. A New Castle small boy was noticed fishing from the stone wall below the old Roseana Furnace dam this morning. He wasn't having much success, but was sticking to it, anyhow.

Lots of New Castle motorists do not exercise due caution in approaching crowded street corners. Every Sunday morning, pedestrians going to and from the Highland U. P. church have to step lively to escape approaching speedsters.

After Burns presented the report the pension board will settle the question whether the ordinance calling for the investment in government bonds it to be made.

Zoning Board Will Hear Two Appeals

One Of Appeals Is For Permit To Enclose Front Porch In Glass

Board of Zoning Appeals will hear two appeals from decisions of city engineer's office Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock when the monthly meeting of the board is held.

The first case is that of George D. Morris, 205 Winter avenue, who has been refused permission to enclose his front porch in glass, which is contrary to the zoning regulations for a residence district.

The second is that of S. C. Moore, proprietor of the Keystone Delivery, Transfer and Storage company, who is building a fine new storage and garage building at South and Beaver streets. He was granted permission to go ahead with the building but was directed to appeal to the board of zoning appeals concerning the several doors to be placed in the building and facing in the streets on which it stands.

Mr. Moore desired to build the doors flush with the property line or walls of the building, while the zoning regulations require that they shall be set back a certain distance. He is seeking the right to have the doors placed flush with the walls of the building.

Shriners Enjoy Party Thursday

Have Excellent Program At Cathedral; Many Visitors Attend

Advertised as "one large evening" the party of the Shriners held Thursday evening in the Cathedral under the auspices of the New Castle Caravan more than lived up to its advertisement. It was a large evening, oversized in fact, and every one of the lads who wear the red fez was more than satisfied.

Shriners from Youngstown and Sharon, Ohio City and the Beaver Valley and every portion of Lawrence county were present and the meritment of the evening sent them away with a smile.

Congressman J. Howard Swick was a guest of honor at the party and made a few brief remarks. New Castle Caravan number five did itself proud at the party and the members are already counting the time until the next one is held.

John T. Cragle, one of the outstanding pioneers in conservation in Pennsylvania, was next called. He outlined the history of the game commission in Pennsylvania, citing the hardships it had to get started, leading up to the present day when the commission spends more than a million dollars per year in the protection of game, and the conservation of the sportsmen's interests.

Mr. Phillips lauded the work of the Boy Scouts and prophesied that inside of the next 25 years there would be a president of the United States who had had Boy Scout training.

The present head of the game commission, Ross M. Loeffler, was the third speaker on the program. He continued his remarks to the question of eradication of surplus does, and said that the commission has done what it deemed best in the interests of the state.

So many officials of the city, county and state were present that the hostmaster, Attorney Robert L. Wallace, merely introduced them, as the time was too short to permit them all to speak. Those introduced were Judge James C. Chambers, ex-Judge William E. Porter, Mayor William H. Gillespie, whom the hostmaster referred to as a "dough hunter," County Commissioners P. O. Elder and C. C. Boyd, County Detective William G. Fleming, Prothonotary Ralph M. Campbell, Register and Recorder Jeanette Hutton, County Treasurer Adda M. Smiley, Postmaster Edwin

McGOWN'S CHILDREN'S SHOES

for EASTER

In choosing children's footwear, one should always take into consideration the very definite economy to be gained through getting shoes of the better quality, which save for you through longer wear—

And you should not overlook the very important fact that the life-long foot ailments which often result from cheap, poorly made shoes, can be entirely avoided by getting the better grade in which skilled workmanship assures shape-retention and proper foot support.

The "health insurance" of better shoes costs very little when compared to the protection it affords delicate growing feet.

Thank Mr. Mitchell.

Super-Enforcement.

By ARTHUR G. BRISANE (Copyright, 1929, King Features Synd., Inc.)

That the Federal Reserve bank, established to prevent panics, should start modest little panics of its own is not what the public anticipated. However, the Federal Reserve is controlled, as many things in general are, by well organized finance, and if it says the little speculators must get out of the market, THEY MUST GET OUT.

The little fellows that took a deep breath for the first time in 48 hours when stocks went up from 1 to 15 points on Wednesday, may thank Charles E. Mitchell, head of New York's National City bank. According to Cyrus H. K. Curtis, "Charles E. Mitchell should be credited with easing the market."

Washington says President Hoover intends to be the boss of his party. He might well, since it gave him 22,000,000 votes. Republicans of the south are told the Republican party must be reconstructed, there on a sound, permanent basis, on the assumption that the war is past and forgotten, and that the south will join Republican prosperity, politically, if the Republicans behave themselves. Selling federal offices to the highest bidder is to be stopped.

Some congressmen insist that President Hoover must write a farm relief bill and let the party pass it. The president will probably say "No, you write and pass it. If it isn't too foolish I will sign it."

It is not easy to confer on a disorganized industry, millions of men on millions of farms, producing without method or plan, the prosperity enjoyed by well organized production industry that pays good dividends.

Frederick H. Ecker, having for many years borne the brunt of management in the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, now becomes president, succeeding the late Haley Place. Mr. Ecker, who handles hundreds of millions every year for Metropolitan policy holders, has been with the company since he was a boy.

This should convince young men and it pays not to be too impatient, and stick to your job, if you are sure you have selected the right job.

In Illinois, for the moment, prohibition enforcement is taken seriously. Local "dry" agents broke into a man's house, battered his head with the stock of a gun, shot his wife dead and knocked down his boy, 9 years old, who objected to the proceedings.

Laws should be enforced, but as far as possible, prohibition agents should avoid shooting women when they break into houses, especially if they have no positive proof of law-breaking.

The issue between S. W. Straus and local authorities at Palm Beach concerning property purchased by Mr. Straus, interests in Florida property owners, particularly those with property for sale.

Mr. Straus, with $5,000,000 invested in the Alca hotel at Palm Beach, required for his guests a suitable bathing beach and paid Mr. Replogle $500,000 for his villa on the seashore.

After Mr. Straus had purchased the estate, the Palm Beach council passed a zoning ordinance forbidding Mr. Straus to put the beach which he had bought and paid for at the disposition of the guests of the Alca hotel.

This is exactly as though, after Mr. Straus bought the Replogle house, the local council had passed an ordinance forbidding him to enter it or sleep in it.

Such an ordinance will stand, since there are higher courts that realize the importance of protecting property values.

It would be well, however, for Palm Beach to find a way out acceptable to Mr. Straus. The impression should not go abroad that when you buy a piece of land in Florida your title is good, unless a local council passes an ordinance destroying the property's value.

Florida's common sense will adjust this matter.

"Not just plain corn, but popcorn—
The kind that goes pop-pop-pop.
An' the very first year I started
I grew a tremendous crop."

"So off to the barn I hauled it
An' piled it up to the top.
Thinkin' of homes made happy
By its pop-pop-pop-pop!"

"But one night the barn caught fire,
An' the fire I couldn't stop.
The flames leaped higher and higher,
An' the corn went pop-pop-pop."

"Pop-pop-pop-pop-pop-pop-pop!
Pop-pop-pop-pop-pop-pop-pop!
Till the roof fell in kerflop!"

"An' the popcorn still kept poppin', Till all of the fields were white.
An' it seemed like a great big snowstorm."

The flames leaped higher and higher,
An' the corn went pop-pop-pop."

Looked up with water breath,

They up an' they froze to death!"

judgment, "It was Foch's battle. The significance in his career: "He was a

American Press Pays Tribute
Foch; Great Christian Soldier

Eulogies Of Dead Warrior Emphasize His Supreme Military Genius, His Statesmanlike Qualities, Modesty
And Humanity

In eulogizing Marshal Ferdinand Foch, the American press recognizes the supreme military genius of France's great soldier and voices the country's appreciation of the statesmanship and personal characteristics including an extraordinary modesty of the man who commanded the mightiest armies the world has ever seen.

"The mighty little man lives on in history," says the ALBANY EVENING NEWS. "He was the man for the time. He had prepared for that time all his years. He was ready. He did not belong to France alone. He was one of the world's greatest, a master of men, a modest, humble, unassuming man with that rare quality of leadership that could save a world disappearing after four years of war."

"Foch could set serious faces as well as smiles," declares the PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL, and adding also to "his consummate knowledge of warfare and his mastery of strategy," and recalling that "at the Foch headquarters there was no fuss and feathers—no orderlies galloping upon smoking steeds; no mid-splashing riders arriving on snorting motor-cycles. A single sentry," continues that paper, "stood at the gate. The great center where mighty decisions were made was as quiet as a farmhouse in the hills in June."

"Fate singled him out as the weapon with which the Allies defeated Germany," the St. Paul Pioneer Press believes. "The chances of international diplomacy called this retired warrior, whose days of active fighting were thought to be over, back into armor to lead the mightiest army the world has ever seen."

The HARTFORD TIMES attests that he "was so distinctly qualified for this position, both in terms of his training and ability on the field of battle and in respect to his many personal attributes, that the demand of the hour for a supreme commander found its complete answer in him."

"Nature made him for the part he played," avers the NEW YORK EVENING WORLD, recording the fact that "this death is deeply regretted in America, and with a

LUCIEN LELONG DISCUSSES MILADY'S LINGERIE

If her toilet is an expression of the very soul of a woman, her lingerie is something even more personal, declares Lucien Lelong, Paris couturier. Bed jacket and dressing gown should match the bed linen, whether the latter be of crepe de chine or fine linen. Under the bed jacket many elegantes wear a nightgown of fine crepe de chine, nothing being seen but the real lace which decorates it in front in the form of an inset chemisette, of crossed bands tied like a fichu, or of a turnover collar. Usually the nightgown is doecollette and sleeveless, but some like to replace it by a nightgown copied from the masculine garment of satin, crepe de chine or chiffon, long sleeved, buttoned at the wrist, with a monogram on the breast pocket.

Stone Tablet In 'Abbey' For Sons Of South

By HENRY LESENE
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
FLETCHER, N. C., March 29.—An "Open Westminster Abbey of the South", composite memorial to southern genii, writers, artists, statesmen and militarists alike, has taken the form of reality.

The modest clergyman to whom perpetuating the stalwarts of Dixie's history and literature has become a passion, has seen the "open abbey" materialize and a handful of its heroes commemorated in granite and bronze in the very heart of the verdant "Land of the Sky".

The unique memorial is situated beside the historic old Calvary Episcopal church, an ivy-covered structure nestled in the hills. Its sponsor is the rector of the church, the Rev. Clarence Stuart McClellan, a New Yorker by birth and a historian of some note. He assumed the rectorate of the Calvary church nearly four years ago.

Unique Shrine
The shrine is unique in that granite monument is an upright, native granite boulder, erected in its original state, even to the moss that clings upon it. On each of the huge rocks is placed a bronze tablet. They are being erected in long rows under the pines and caks.

There is a poet's corner in the abbey, an artists' corner, a writers' corner and a niche for the South's statesmen, militarists, patriots and other figures whose names have become bywords down the course of time. The entire abbey is to be separated from the churchyard proper by a high laurel hedge.

General Robert E. Lee, "Dan" Emmett, the composer of "Dixie"; James Whitcomb Riley, the poet; Stephen Collins Foster, the composer of "Swanee River" and other southern songs; O'Henry, the father of the American short story; Sidney Lanier, the Georgia poet, and many others already have been commemorated by the erection of boulders in the abbey.

More to Come
There are many more that are to be erected and unveiled with appropriate ceremonies in the future. The plans of the Rev. McClellan call for the erection of at least four a year. During 1929, however, five memorials will be unveiled at the southern shrine.

The first of these dedications falls on June 30. On that date a memorial to Francis Scott Key, composer of "The Star Spangled Banner", will take place. The monument is a gift of Herbert Livingston Satterlee of New York, a brother-in-law of J. Pierpont Morgan.

Four more tablets will be unveiled during the year. They are to the memory of James Blackwell, the Virginia poet; Joel Chandler Harris, the creator of that famous fictional character, "Uncle Remus"; Herman Arnold, composer of the music to "Dixie"; and Henry Timrod, the South Carolina poet.

Coatesville, Pa.—"I was the most miserable of men, my back was so stiff and sore that I could not do any work without suffering. I noticed a sediment-like brick dust in the kidney excretion. I took various remedies without finding relief. Finally my wife wrote to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel for advice. We followed that advice by purchasing at the drug store a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets and that bottle of medicine surely did do wonders for me. The uric acid cleared up and my kidneys and bladder ceased to give any distress and I am now feeling just fine. I have recently started on my second bottle of 'Anuric' just to keep my kidneys in good condition thru the winter."—Levi R. Ebelhar, 335 Charles St.

WALTER WINCHELL

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.
NEW YORK, March 29.—When Porter Carruthers was the business brains of the N. Y. Evening Post he decided to arouse his advertising bureau with a pep talk. So he urged Christopher Morley, then the rag's columnist, to make the speech before the men. Morley was strenuously opposed to this Rotarian stunt, but finally consented.

The entire advertising staff collected in Mr. Carruthers' office. They waited an hour for Morley, who groaned as he entered. Then, in a greatly annoyed manner, he briefly chirped: "As I look over this gathering it strikes me that each of you fellows would bring in at least one ad we'd have a lot of advertising!" Mr. Morley was never called upon for a pep talk again.

DRAMA
Ed Gallagher, once part of the famous Gallagher and Sheen team, still is pretty low at the sanitarium where he has been confined for over three years. A letter in care of the doctor in charge came the other day, containing two old dirty ten spots. The note read: "We just heard about your illness. You wouldn't know us because we are obscure people. But we used to enjoy you so much and trust you will permit us to make you happy for a few moments. Please take this money and have them buy flowers to make your sickroom more cheerful on Easter, or something."
There was no signature. It was apparent that the thoughtful senders sacrificed themselves. It was the first letter any one sent the one-time stage favorite during his long and miserable confinement.

BAFFLED ISN'T THE WORD:
Under the heading "A Press Agent is Baffled," Mr. Arthur Kober writes in the Sunday Telegraph, "The Broadway stars who do not want publicity (to rich the expression of a Broadway columnist) can be counted on the fingers of Venus."

Thanks for the ad. as a morning paper columnist, whose name is Franklin P. Adams would say.

ALWAYS BELITTLE
Among other books diversion seekers are recommended to is "All Victories Are Alike," by Leane Zugsmith (Payson-Clark, Ltd.). We quote from its jacket: "He was Page Trent, the columnist, who loved himself too much to love the world. You can see him any day walking down the avenue, his felt hat pulled over his tired eyes. He thought he might be forgiven by the wounded women in his life through marrying one. His story is the story of the universal cheat who finds himself the cheated."
In fewer sentences, it is a delightful romantic book about a columnist who loved and lost.

OOP!
Take it from Harry Reichenbach. If there weren't any bad actors there wouldn't be any need for press agents.

WILL GOES A-TOURING
Due to the fact that Will Rogers has been signed to make a talking picture in Los Angeles this summer, Charles Dillingham is sending "Three Cheers," his big musical extravaganza, co-starring Will Rogers and Dorothy Stone, to as many big key cities as possible before June 1, so that patrons in other cities can see this big show before that date, when Mr. Rogers will depart for the coast. As a result, "Three Cheers" will close at the Globe on April 13 and will be followed by a brief engagement in Boston. Incidentally, this will be Will Rogers' last appearance on stage or in concert for the next two years.

IT COULD HAPPEN
They would have you believe that Mr. Ziegfeld, in hiring a very beautiful girl recently, warned her that he never tolerates flirting, while in the theater, at any rate.
"Keep your dignity and self-respect when working for me," counseled the femme glorifier, "and whatever you do, never be seen talking to a press agent."
"Please don't worry," replied the

Think Pyramids Of Egypt Built For Sun Dials

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

LONDON, March 29.—In the belief that the pyramids of Egypt were built as sun-dials, by which the seasons could be accurately measured in order to insure production of good crops, Moses B. Cotsworth, director of the International Fixed Calendar League, has written to the Egyptian government for cooperation in testing his theory.

Cotsworth plans to erect on the top of the Great Pyramid of Cheops a model of the original apex which once stood on top of the huge structure. He believes that the space on the north side of the pyramid was used as a dial, or shadow floor, the reflection thrown from the apex affording a means of calculating the time and the seasons.

"The generally accepted theory that the Egyptians built their series of stupendous pyramids merely as royal graves will not hold," Cotsworth declared in an interview with International News Service. "No other race was so unimpractically as the ancient Egyptians."

"It was the exact knowledge of the seasons acquired, as I believe, by the priests with the aid of the pyramids, that first enabled the Egyptians to produce two crops each year instead of one."

"More perfect pyramids later produced such accuracy in their proportions that they were unable to obtain three crops of grain, their most important grain. A delay of even a few days in sowing seed for such important third crops brought bad harvests, which endangered the national life and prosperity."

The most important use of the pyramids, Cotsworth maintains, was to keep a secret calendar which preserved for them a monopoly of accurate knowledge as to the recurrence of the seasons.

In a country whose people had no ready means of reckoning time and the seasons accurately, yet whose livelihood depended upon their agricultural work being performed at the right times, the existence of an accurate calendar of some design would be an all-important thing.

Cotsworth believes that the pyramids were constructed with such exquisite care because of the fact that the sun being the Egyptians' god, the privilege of measuring his shadow by means of the pyramid was looked upon as a sacred rite.

"Chloroform Slayer" Loses Confidence, Cringes In Cell

Mrs. Olive Adams Has Lost Her Bravado; Husband Smoothered While Asleep

International News Service
HARTFORD, Conn., March 29.—Mrs. Olive Adams, the "chloroform slayer," was stricken with remorse today.

Gone was the bravado she evidenced when she admitted to the police that she had murdered her husband Harry Adams, young meteorologist in charge of the local weather bureau, by sprinkling chloroform on a handkerchief and putting it in his hand as he slept. No longer was she saying, "I'm glad he's gone," and her care-free smile had turned to an expression of fear.

"Oh, don't believe what the papers say—I'm not as bad as painted," she cried in her cell, when her mother-in-law, Mrs. Nellie B. Adams, paid her a visit bringing the young woman prisoner's son, Ahanda, eleven years old.

Mrs. Adams began "hedgeing" on her alleged confession. "I didn't do it," she moaned, petulantly. "The police made me say those things."

The motive for the slaying—whether it was jealousy or a desire on the part of a young wife to get away from a husband she had tired of was—the question puzzling authorities as they proceeded with their investigation of the strange case preparatory to bringing Mrs. Adams to trial.

If A Man Die, Shall He Live Again

"Brass Tacks" on the Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

By ALVIN E. BELL.

On this glad Easter day the spiritual eyes of all thoughtful Christian folk turn instantly toward that open, empty tomb in the garden of Joseph of Arimathea, and their souls rejoice at the angel's message: "Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here, but is risen."

The time references in the gospel accounts of the resurrection story are indicative of the spiritual condition within the souls of our Lord's first disciples: "As it began to dawn," "Very early in the morning," "At the rising of the sun," "Early, when it was yet dark." Thus do the four evangelists mark the time of that sad procession of devout women as they came to the tomb with their spices to embalm a dead Christ. This darkness, however, was not so deep or as oppressive as the inner darkness of despair within their own souls. Their spices spoke of unfeeling love, but they spoke also of the utter failure of their faith and their hope. But this twilight which engulfed the gospel was soon to be turned into radiant morn with the angelic announcement, "He is risen, as he said. Come see the place where the Lord lay." This was "the rising of the sun" on their spiritual horizon. Thus the gospel emerged from dark despair into the radiance of the first Lord's day as "life and immortality were brought to light through the gospel."

The Rebirth of Faith and Hope.

How dead the disciples' faith was may be inferred from the fact that even when the women brought them word of the empty tomb, the angels' message and the claim of having met the risen Lord himself, "These words appeared in their sight as idle talk; and they disbelieved them." So one of the best proofs of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus is the resurrection of the faith and hope of his disciples. One by one from Peter to Thomas they were absolutely convinced that their Lord who was crucified, dead and buried had risen from the dead.

on the third day as he said he would. Their testimony to this fact is the more credible because they did not expect it, at first would not believe it, and had to be convinced by indisputable proofs to which they insisted upon being eye witnesses.

Immortality Brought to Light.

The question "If a man die shall he live again?" has troubled humanity from Job's time down through the ages. The resurrection of Christ is the buoyant answer to that question. Before Christopher Columbus' voyage into the mysteries of the unknown, men would not believe there was land out there beyond their sight. They peopled the realm beyond their narrow horizon with dreadful creations of their own superstitious fears. But Columbus returned safely and testified, "There is land out there; I have been there and have seen it and have returned to testify." So the Lord Jesus Christ has voyaged into the realms of death and the grave, and has returned alive, and testifies to us that there is land beyond the horizon of this earthly life: "Let not your heart be troubled; believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you; I go to prepare a place for you." And when we inquire the way to this blessed land beyond, he answers, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life: no one cometh unto the Father, but by me." The proof of his right to make and his ability to make good this supreme claim is his own resurrection from the dead: "Fear not; I am the first and the last, and the Living One; and I was dead; and behold, I am alive forevermore, and I have the keys of death, and of Hades."

(The International Uniform Lesson for March 31, 5 Matt. 23:34-36; Mark 12:27, 28; Luke 24:1-12; John 14:1-6; 1 Cor. 15:3-20, 50-58; 1 Thes. 4:13-18; Rev. 22:1-5, the subject being "The Future Life," and the Golden Text Rev. 2:10 "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life.")

Annual Clam Digging Started On Coast

(International News Service) ABERDEEN, Wash., March 29. —A horde of 3,000 enthusiastic clam-diggers, armed with a motley assortment of digging instruments, descended upon that unprospecting member of the bivalve family—the razor-back clam—and began the annual harvest of potential clamchowder along the beaches of Grays Harbor as the 90-day season opened here.

Veteran clam-chasers deplored the advent of hundreds of "amateur" diggers, whom they claim cause the wary razor-back to scuttle for deeper and safer depths by their unskilled approach and inexperienced prodding. Some of the veterans secure catches worth $60 in a single day.

PARIS, March 29.—Flu and short skirts don't keep company, according to French medical authorities who find that the girls wearing the scantiest clothing have been the ones to escape the dreaded gripe this winter.

"The shorter the skirts, the better," advise the doctors, "and the throats open and free from wind-scarves. Influenza is a germ disease and does not come from exposure to cold. It thrives on red flannels and dirt-ridden sweaters. Frenchmen have suffered much more than the women during the recent wave."

Davis, Now In Third Cabinet, Takes Responsibilities Coolly

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News
WASHINGTON, March 29.—James J. Davis is so thoroughly tried a veteran at the head of the labor department—first in President's Harding's cabinet, then in President Coolidge's, now in President Hoover's—that he takes his responsibilities very coolly.

In fact, he is secretary of labor at an exceedingly critical time—the climax of the most remarkable period of industrialization in the world's history—particularly intensive in America.

Approximately within Secretary Davis' term in office, the United States has been transformed from a predominantly agricultural into a predominantly manufacturing country. As if this were not enough, the industries today are in process of transition to an era of machine production which many economists believe will result in an enormous over-supply of every imaginable commodity, with correspondingly wide unemployment.

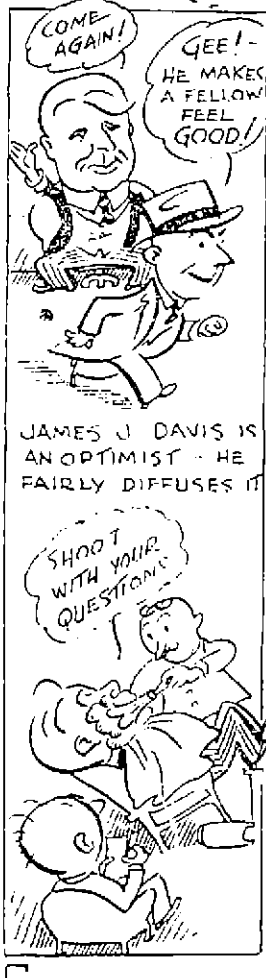

Secretary Davis sees the situation clearly enough. He discusses it with a readiness sufficient to show that he has thought of it from every angle. However, he does not allow it to upset him. Evidently he considers an emergency to suitable moment for excitement.

"Do you mind if I call in my barber while I talk to you?" he asked me, peeling off coat, collar and tie, as I entered his office. "Things pile up so. I have trouble finding time for him."

And while the tonsorial expert proceeded to lather, scrape, snip and shampoo industriously, his subject went calmly on with the conversation.

No, the labor secretary is not one of those who believes that labor-saving machine threatens extensive idleness.

"Increased production means increased demand," he assured me. "Only a few people can pay for a very expensive article. Consequently the market for it is limited. Let labor-saving machinery enable manufacturers to begin turning it out at popular prices and everybody rushes to buy it. The market expands in proportion. Indeed, increased consumption outruns increased production. Presently the new method employs more hands than the old one did."

JAMES J. DAVIS IS AN OPTIMIST. HE FAIRLY DIFFUSES IT.

History, to be sure, bears out Secretary Davis' argument. In the early days of steam, labor fought machinery bitterly, but machinery won; and, just as the secretary says, the change did bring improved conditions for the workers—ultimately, however, the period of change was painful.

"Yes, and it would be here and now, too," agreed Mr. Davis. "If it were not for our immigration restrictions. These restrictions protect American labor."

"Even with restricted immigration," admitted the labor secretary, "the transformation of a plant is hard on the old hands, trained to the old system."

"Some managements have tried to readjust too rapidly. Their plan has been to run, up to the last minute, on the old basis, and then shift overnight, to the new one. This has involved letting their old forces go, and charging to new ones."

"In the labor department we have been preaching to them the necessity of a slower process—giving the veterans time for re-education."

Nevertheless, the more or less automatic tending of a piece of machinery can hardly demand the intelligence required of the hand-worker of yore. Is it reasonable to expect to pay the same or more money for less intelligence—that is, intelligence which is no longer needed, even though the worker may possess it.

"They must keep up wages," replied Secretary Davis, "or lose their customers. The wage earners, in general, furnish the market for the industries. In general, low wages, no sales."

"I think business men now are pretty well sold on that proposition."

True, increasing consumption did, earlier in the machine age, keep ahead of increasing production.

But will it continue to do so?—at the present terrific rate.

Secretary Davis, now out of the barber's hands, nodded.

"Was there ever so prosperous a country as this one in recent years?" he asked—rhetorically, evidently expecting no answer.

Maybe not, but I could have told him some folk who are afraid of his machine age. I could have referred him to his own statistical bureau, for doubts concerning it. I might have reminded him that he, himself, is a hearty five-day-a-week advocate. It would not have teased him, though.

Secretary of Labor Davis is an optimist. He has the hopeful Welsh temperament. He looks it and he expresses it. He also diffuses it. Nobody, they say, ever fails to leave James J. Davis' office in a more cheerful frame of mind than that in which he entered it.

Kieb, field representative of the American Red Cross and Captain M. L. Craig, officer in charge of the reserve officers of Mercer, Beaver, Butler and Lawrence counties.

The address of Mr. Kieb was along the line of the work of the American Red Cross, stating that it was caring for people in times of different disasters at the present time, due to floods, tornadoes and mining trouble. He told how the Red Cross was assisting the unfortunate ex-service men, had 47,000 nurses registered for use in emergencies, is instructing great numbers in home nursing and in first aid and swimming. He gave a demonstration of first aid work during his talk.

Captain Craig gave an interesting talk on the formation of a division and the part that artillery played in the work of an army division with respect to the infantry and other units of that part of an army.

Lewis E. Burnside, president, presided and presented the suggestion of the Sharon Reserve officers, that for the betterment of work there for credits that a sub-branch or branch of the local chapter be established there and hold monthly meetings for instruction and other purposes. The Sharon men's ideas concerning the matter were presented by Lieutenants John R. Gaston, John E. Mosely, L. E. Payne and F. L. Snyder of that city. Different local members spoke in support of the proposition and the organization of the branch was authorized and the action of the Sharon men in selecting Lieutenant Mosely as secretary there was also approved. The Sharon group will meet the first Thursday evening of each month and Captain M. L. Craig assisted and others would be up to assist them.

It was decided that the next dinner meeting here should be held Thursday April 25 with Major C. N. Sawyer of Harrisburg, as the speaker. Lieutenant Sylvester J. Kramer of the Beaver Valley, was elected as delegate from the local chapter to the National Convention in Indianapolis, Indiana on April 25-26. A number of other matters of routine business were considered.

Major C. E. Imbrie of Butler, member of the state committee on re-vamping the state constitution, reported that no progress had yet been made.

Those in attendance last night were: W. R. Walter, Capt. Engr. Sylvester J. Kramer, Lt. F. A. Paul, A. Welsh, Lt. F. A. Donald Donley, Lt. Med. Res. J. R. Sharp, Lt. 395 Inf. J. Ketola Must Waive Damages Miller Says

Municipal Engineer Frank Miller reported to council in meeting at city hall today that Martin Ketola, Leasure avenue and North Beaver street built his house in the line of a stream and had diverted the water. He recently complained and asked council to furnish pipe to carry the water away. He agreed according to Miller to construct the line and run it to a catchbasin and under these terms Miller recommended that should damages also be waived the pipe should be furnished him. The report was sent to committee.

WORSHIP - - - - - By Laird

Everyone goes to church on Easter Sunday, young and old, grave and gay. What they go to worship depends on their make-up. Some—many—sweet, pious souls go to rejoice in the miracle of the risen Christ and to give thanks to their Creator for Him. They give no thought to earthly things. To them the re-birth of nature and even the new clothing they wear, is but a symbol of the spiritual revival. But there are also many who go to worship Vanity and Display. To them the church bells rings to call out throngs of gaily dressed people to see one another's fine clothes. Even the flowers on the altars are only reflecting the happiness of humans who joyfully cast off their old winter garments and blossoms forth in new. Thus are materialism and spiritualism always waiting for supremacy in human nature.

Soviets Open Drive On Religious Cults

MOSCOW, March 28.—A drive against weird religious cults which have sprung up like weeds since the revolution is being directed by the Communist party with the aid of the GPU (secret police).

A raid on a colony of "Histi" in a suburb of Moscow revealed what the GPU branded as a counter-revolutionary organization. Members of the cult, preached that all those who were born into this irreligious communistic age were doomed to die unless purged by fire. Infants born to "Histi" adherents were actually baptized by being swung through the flames of bonfires until the hair on the screaming baby heads was burned off. In several cases parents were so far as to murder their infants to save them from spiritual ruin. The ceremonies of the cult were witnessed by a GPU agent in disguise. Members assembled at midnight in a large room, the floor of which had been scrubbed white. Entrance was obtained by mumbling a password. At first the cultists, dressed in white robes with sashes of Turkish towels, clasping hands and formed a circle. After bowing and kissing each other they danced around in a circle. After a while they removed the towels from their belts and whipped each other with fanatical joy. The dance continued until someone, usually an elderly woman, fell to the floor from exhaustion, foaming at the mouth and mumbling incoherently. Members of the cult bent over her trying to hear the words of wisdom which she was supposed to be uttering.

Crash Hurts Are Fatal To Woman

ALTOONA, Pa., March 29.—Mrs. Rose Rowles, 49, of Eldorado, a suburb of Altoona, died Thursday morning of injuries received when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband, John H. Rowles, and young daughter collided with another car on Lakemont Park hill. She was thrown from the car and a third automobile ran over her. The husband and daughter escaped injury.

Farmers May Get Farm Relief But Lose Power At Session Of Congress

Special Session Will Take Up Farm Relief And Reapportionment

Farmers May Lose 23 Members In House If Present Plans Carry

By ARTHUR WIMER (Special Washington Correspondent for the New Castle News.)

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Residents of rural United States—of those regions of wide horizons where the little red hen scratches diligently and contented cows gaze with mild envy across fences at acres wealthy with wheat and corn—seem slated to listen to a pleasing refrain written in notes of federal aid and farm relief during the coming special session.

But according to the attitude of leaders of Congress, before the session is ended these rights of the soil may hear a few discords in the melody in the form of reapportionment legislation.

It seems from talk in informed political circles here that the special session will be limited to tariff, farm relief, and legislation pointed at a reapportionment of the House of Representatives. And while the farmers of the country appear to be in a fair way of receiving federal relief they are also threatened with the loss of approximately 23 members in the House.

Nearly nine years ago, upon the basis of the 1920 national population census, the House should have been reapportioned, according to the Constitution. But the census was considered unfair and no reapportionment was made. For eight years editorial writers the country over blared forth at Congress accusing epithets for the failure of that body to enact reapportionment legislation. Individual Congressmen turned and fretted; twice the House passed bills providing for reapportionment and twice the Senate ignored these measures.

And now, after eight years of verbal strife, Congress is about to reapportion the House in a manner which promises to deprive the agricultural states of approximately 23 Representatives, thereby swinging a large force of political power toward the cities, not in the House alone but also in the national conventions and in the presidential electoral college.

To Present Old Bill The same reapportionment bill passed by the House in the last session but killed by the Senate, will be presented to Congress by Representative E. Hart Fenn of Connecticut as soon as the special session convenes on the fifteenth. And this measure, according to the calculations of the census bureau, would result in a loss of power mainly by farm states and a gain of power mainly by states having large cities.

An analysis of the bill upon population estimates of the census bureau indicates that such farm states as Massachusetts, Vermont, Maine, Alabama, Iowa, Kansas, North Dakota, Wyoming, Virginia and Washington would lose Representatives by the reapportionment measure, while such large-city states as Connecticut, Michigan, California, New Jersey and Ohio would gain representation in the House. Approximately 23 members would be lost by 17 states—largely agricultural states—and gained by eleven or twelve other states.

An interpretation of this reapportionment, many believe, would suggest that 23 Representatives who now speak for farm communities would in the future be the voices for 23 more-or-less urban districts. Such a shift of power would mean much on questions affecting the interests of farmers and manufacturers. It would also mean much in prohibition, in the conflicting interests of rural and city folks.

Affects Electoral College But it would go further than Congress. It would influence the electoral college, touch the national nominating conventions.

In presidential elections, each state has as many electoral votes as that state has members in Congress. With the loss of 23 Representatives by states of agricultural trend would go a loss of electoral votes and a corresponding gain of electoral power and presidential votes on the part of the large-city states.

A further loss of farm state power in presidential nominating conventions would probably attend the enactment of the Fenn reapportionment measure. Presidential conventions are made up, roughly speaking, on a basis of two delegates for each member of Congress. Consequently, if the reapportionment bill receives congressional and presidential approval during special session, the national conventions of 1932 may find the agricultural power at the conventions decreased with the urban forces reinforced by added delegates.

Penna. Loses One Under the bill to be considered in special session, Pennsylvania would lose one member in the House, which would probably mean the loss of one vote in the presidential electoral college and approximately two delegates to the republican and democratic national conventions.

The fate of the bill, of course, is as yet in doubt, but leaders of both the House and Senate feel confident it will be passed during special session.

Spirits Tell Archduke Divorce And Remarry

(International News Service) VIENNA, March 29.—Orders received from one of his ancestors during a spiritist seance caused Archduke Joseph Ferdinand, Austrian army leader during the war, to get a divorce from his wife after eight years of wedded but childless life and to marry Fraulein Klodilde Gertrud Tomasek, daughter of an ex-colonel, but a commoner.

The archduke's first wife was Fraulein Rose Jockl, daughter of an Austrian estate owner.

Joseph Ferdinand is now 63 years old and takes great interest in spiritist science.

Lily Langtry's Road Will Be Abandoned

(International News Service) SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 29.—"Jersey Lily's" long-forgotten, grass-grown road has been slated to pass from the picture of political dissolution forever.

Once the highway to the California estate of Lily Langtry of stage and smart set fame, the road which hasn't been used for ten years will be vacated by supervisors of the county in which it lies, a bill recommended by the California state senate committee on county government is enacted.

The Jersey Lily who married an earl, and whose portrait, "The Jersey Lily" brought fame rivaling her London stage popularity, long ago forgot the road when she sold her

California property, but a political feud has prevented the abandonment of the road. Although the winding path is never used, the supervisors have refused consistently the pleas of present owners to declare it out of existence.

Under the measure before the legislative body, any road not dedicated to public use by deed and title to which has not been acquired by eminent domain and which for five years has been impassable and has received no benefit from public funds, must be declared abandoned by boards of supervisors.

WORTH WHILE. Humdreds have done a little of general appearance. They have been eliminated the men who tell him must thrust his head into a mouth almost entirely and pull it again before he bit it.

Adams Case Has New Sensations

Woman Held For Killing Husband Denies Relations With Any Other Man

HAITFORD, Conn., March 29.—Sensation followed today in the murder of Harry E. Adams, meteorologist at the local weather bureau and Buddhist disciple.

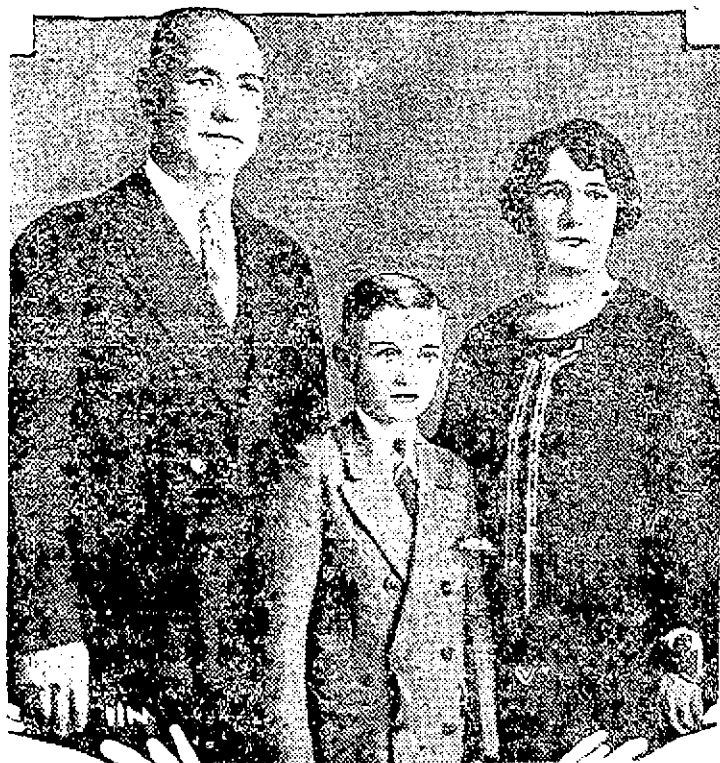

While Mrs. Olive Adams, who has confessed to chloroforming her husband as he lay asleep, repeated her charges of his infidelity, Charles Ross, a slim, dark-haired youth, declared that he had been intimate with her. The alleged declaration was immediately followed by an affidavit signed by Mr. Olive E. Adams, in which she branded alleged intimacy with one "Charles Ross" as a "contemptible falsehood."

Under oath, she subscribed to the following terse statement:

"Olive E. Adams, now in the Hartford county jail, hospital ward, hereby take oath and declare that I am not acquainted with one Charles Ross; that I have never had any intimate relationship with said Charles Ross or any other living man. "And that publication of anything to the contrary is hereby branded as a contemptible falsehood."

Hardly less sensational is the revelation made by Mrs. Adams, according to police, that her husband performed an illegal operation on her with crude home-made instruments just a week before she killed him.

Woman Killing Severely Condemned

Joseph De King was beaten about the head, his wife, Lillian, shot dead, and a dry agent wounded by their son in a raid on their home at Aurora, Ill. Dry agents claim that the De Kings, above, resisted their entry and they were obliged to use force to gain entry. Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran, when notified at Washington, said that "strongarm methods and the use of firearms in prohibition enforcement are strictly prohibited in Federal service."

Declares Letter In Kidnaping Case Work Of "Crack"

Detective Chief Says Anonymous Letter Is "Lot Of Junk"

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—A "crack" letter and a lot of "junk," was the comment of Chief of Detectives W. G. Sheelanberger here today in discussing a letter purported to have been received by a local newspaper, which exonerated the Arnolds in connection with the mysterious disappearance of four-year-old Melvin Horst from the streets of Orrville.

The letter in brief said that Elias and Arthur Arnold, convicted and sentenced for the crime, had nothing to do with the kidnaping and that Melvin had been struck and killed by an auto, the body was brought here and thrown into the river. It was signed "Liquor Runner."

"It was either the work of friends of the Arnolds or a 'crack' letter," in either case, it is a lot of "junk," Chief Sheelanberger declared.

License Fees May Be Required For Broadcasting

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 29.—In line with the Dill resolution adopted by the Senate just prior to adjournment, calling upon the federal radio commission to formulate a schedule of broadcast fees, the commission is now sending out questionnaires to every licensed radio station in Pennsylvania demanding financial reports on the activities of the stations.

The Dill resolution instructs the radio commission to compile a schedule of radio station broadcast fees to be recommended to Congress as the charges which should be made for the different kinds of radio licenses issued by the commission. The resolution, according to the belief of many radio experts here, may presage the enactment of a system whereby a license fee may be imposed upon radio stations of the country.

In order to gather information upon which to base this schedule of fees requested by the Dill resolution the commission is directing all stations of the country to provide the commission with sworn statements of financial reports of every phase of the broadcaster's business. Upon these statements the commission will draw up a potential schedule of station fees to recommend to Congress.

County Federation

Of Women's Clubs

THEY ARE OURS—PROTECT THEM.

Pennsylvania has a welfare problem in which the Federated Women's clubs are greatly interested.

This problem concerns the most precious asset of our state—not our coal or our oil, or our steel mill or tin mill output; it concerns our boys and girls, our future citizens. Why shouldn't we be interested?

There is an army of these children in Pennsylvania 250,000 strong—ever-changing of course—again at the age of 14 and 15 have left school for full time employment.

Aside from the loss that is theirs because of a lack of education, many are put to work over dangerous machines and gaseous fumes. They are put to work where long hours sap their physical strength, stunt their mental growth and deny them the playtime that is the inherent right of youth.

Many of them are employed illegally, for we do have some laws protecting them. If a boy or girl is put to work at a machine that is forbidden under a certain age and is injured or killed at that machine, there can be no compensation recovered. Again, if a child is at work without an employment certificate, possibly, through ignorance of its need, and injury or death comes to him there is no compensation though we have the Workers Compensation Act of 1915.

There is a crying need for shorter hours.

The enforcement of the rules regarding street trades for children should be in the hands of school authorities and not with a politically minded officer.

Before a child is permitted to go to work at an early age he should have a physical examination by a doctor who could not be influenced by the desire of the parents or by the whim of the child.

Many children are being passed back and forth over state lines to evade school attendance laws, and a drastic law is needed.

Such bills are pending in our state legislature and the strength of the Federated Clubs is being used to encourage the passage of these much needed laws.

Thirty-three states have better child labor laws than Pennsylvania. Why should we be so far in the rear? President Hoover in his acceptance speech said: "For many years I have been associated with efforts to save life and health for our children. These experiences with millions of children both at home and abroad have left an indelible impression—the greatness of any nation, its freedom from poverty and crime, its aspirations and ideals are the direct quotient of the care of its children. So say we all—let's fight for them, our greatest asset.

Indiana Man Receives Belated War Citation

INDIANAPOLIS, March 29.—More than ten years after the world war the government has just cited Staff Sergeant Henry Acker, stationed now at Fort Benjamin Harrison here, for gallantry in action on the western front in France.

Announcement of the citation of Sergeant Acker has just been received in Indianapolis from the office of the secretary of war in Washington.

Acker, who hails from Dudleytown, Ind., is a member now of the service company of the 11th U. S. Infantry.

The citation, a silver star, was awarded Sergeant Acker for gallantry in action near Cunel, France, October 14, 1918.

It is stated that nobody knows how many laws are in force. Nor how many are enforced.

What is needed is a system of flood relief that is adapted to wet weather. —The Toledo Blade.

Bobbed Hair Hoax Dupes Many Girls

LEIPZIG, Germany, March 29.—Many of the bobbed heads of Leipzig were thrown into a panic the other day when their owners received through the mail what appeared to be official notices calling attention to their failure to pay the required bobbed-hair tax.

While none of the young ladies—as well as those who were not so young—had ever heard of a tax on bobbed hair, only a few of them doubted the authenticity of the notices. The letters were written on the official stationery of the local tax office; the cold, abrupt, formal language employed in the notices was exactly what one would expect from a tax collector. The recipients were informed that they must appear at the tax office on a certain day to explain their failure to pay or to have their tresses measured to see whether they were taxable.

Promptly at the appointed hour scores of women appeared at the office. It was not until after they had waited around for half a day, however, that it dawned on them that the notices might have been the work of a practical joker, and even then a few remained skeptical until it was formally and officially explained that the city of Leipzig was not taxing bobbed heads.

New Haven Railroad To Spend $6,500,000

(International News Service.) BOSTON, March 29.—Expenditure of $6,500,000 for new passenger equipment was authorized by the directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

Included in the new equipment will be 90 all steel coaches, 10 combination coaches, 15 apartment mail coaches, 6 diners, 20 gasoline electric cars, 24 trailers for gasoline electric cars, 3 multiple unit motor cars, and 6 multiple unit trailer cars.

Objection To Account Filed In Dean Case

Claimed Business Of Dean Auto Service Is Being Diverted To Another Station

Another chapter was written into a contest over the will of the late Nellie M. Dean at court this morning when objection was made to the statement of account to which petitioners objected, among them being an item claimed as a credit of $1,219.02 fees to Robert K. Aiken as executor under the alleged will of Nellie M. Dean.

Petitioners claim that they received no notice of the filing of the account of Marie Dravo Aiken until a letter was received from O. H. Aikens, March 25th, 1929, and that they expect to be able to prove that no notice was given to Attorney Aikens.

They ask for a citation on Marie Dravo Aiken and that a hearing be held. An order to that effect was made. Date of hearing will be announced later.

The petitioners are Ida B. Dodson, John H. Ally, Harry T. Ally, T. J. Madden, Eugene Madden, J. Lawrence Madden and Francis Rankin, heirs of the late Nellie M. Dean.

It is alleged that a statement of account filed is not an account of the administration of the estate of Nellie M. Dean up to the time of the death of Robert K. Aiken, the executor under the Dean will, as it fails to account for all of the income from the Dean estate.

Among other items it is set forth that the property known as the Dean auto service station, a going concern, producing large revenue, is not accounted for as its fair market value at the date of the death of Nellie M. Dean, but instead the income and profits therefrom have been diverted, used and invested in the erection and equipment of a plant or station in the vicinity for operation in competition with the property known as the Dean auto service station, such new plant being located at East New Castle as the property of the Williams Petroleum company, the incorporators being P. E. Conerty, O. D. Williams and P. J. Conerty.

It is further recited that "By other means and in other ways the said property known as the Dean Auto Service station, has been greatly and irreparably depreciated and injured in its trade and good will as a going concern since the death of Nellie M. Dean and during the period covered by the statement of account filed."

and the said account contains no item or allowance as compensation to the owners of the said property for such damage or loss. There are many other errors in the statement of account to which petitioners objected, among them being an item claimed as a credit of $1,219.02 fees to Robert K. Aiken as executor under the alleged will of Nellie M. Dean.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations
Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

It's one thing to be a sport and another thing to be a sportsman. It was sportsman's night Thursday night and customers they certainly made the most of it. About 500 hunters and fishermen were present in the Cathedral dining room and some of the fish stories that were swapped would have made Baron Munchausen blush with shame. However after Wes Davy told about his hairy fish of Nova Scotia, the fish stories lost color. Nobody could beat a hairy fish story.

Ross Loeffler the president of the Game Commission, was there and after hearing him talk you can see why he is the president of the commission. In the past several months the commission's path has been one not altogether roses but the difficulties are now ironed out.

The trouble arose over the shooting of does in the mountain counties. Some of the citizens of those counties two years ago were complaining that the deer were ruining the crops and eating the young fruit trees. After the commission provided a means of getting rid of the overplus the same citizens cried the blues because the deer were shot.

Being a member of the Game Commission is like being a judge at a baby show. You're never right. My own guess is that Ross Loeffler and the game commission members are doing a good job in the very best way they can and deserve the support of all of us. They make mistakes occasionally at least. I hope they do for

I would hate to think that a game commissioner was more than human.

The answer to all the criticism is this. Pennsylvania is now the premier game state of the entire United States. More deer and bear are shot in this state than in any other state. If you think Colorado or Wyoming has better bear hunting, forget it for Pennsylvania leads them all.

Get home this week in time to hear the roar over the proposed five cent gas tax. Such a proposal belongs on the comic page. Pennsylvania has no more reason to levy a five cent gasoline tax at the present time than it has to declare war on the Siberians. And either proposal would have about the same chance of passing.

About tomorrow morning you can call the florist up and order your usual Easter bouquet. Say it with geraniums will be the slogan or perhaps you prefer cornflips. A nice flock of violets will set you back only a couple of days pay and an added touch of asparagus will only mean a couple of dollars more.

As a suggestion, cut down half of the price of your sweetie's bouquet and send a plant to some friend in the hospital. The plant will cheer up the sick room, gladden your friend's heart, feed your own soul and give the girl friend a lesson on economy.

Not every June marriage is a new experience for those engaging in it. For some it is merely repetition.

It is said that wealth is a burden, but those who have it seem entirely willing to bear it.

"Ten Herbs has made a new man of me," said Mr. Daniel Kordan. "I had suffered for 15 years without being able to find satisfactory relief, although I tried every kind of medicine I heard of or saw advertised. I had trouble with my stomach and my head, and kept getting worse until often I would have to lie in bed. Instead of going to work, there were only a few things I could eat, and even these would cause pain and gas. Sometimes the gas was so bad that it affected my heart and breathing. I was always constipated. Headaches came on me, and frequently I would get so dizzy I could not stand. Black spots floated before my eyes. I was a nervous wreck." "Ten Herbs in the paper, and started me on this medicine. Even the first bottle gave me relief. I continued taking Ten Herbs until now I am well and enjoying life again. Ewing Park Now Part Of Ellwood

Ordinance Is Signed; To Be Known As Fifth Ward

ELLWOOD CITY, March 29.—With the signing of the ordinance by Acting Burgess Judd Turner providing for the annexation of Ewing Park and considerable adjoining territory to the borough this new addition will be known as the fifth ward of Ellwood City.

Ewing Park which adjoins the east end of the borough was laid out into a residential district a little over ten years ago by the National Tube company and nearly 200 houses were built on this site by the company.

Since that time the building of many beautiful homes by the employees has increased the population of this section rapidly and at the present time ground has been broken for a number of new residences.

A new modern school building was built recently giving the children all the advantages of city schools.

The addition of this territory also gives the city several more miles of paved streets in addition to a desirable tract for annexation.

Goes For Swim In Icy Water, Drowned

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 29.—The body of Jack Diebold, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Clifford W. Diebold, 1520 Corporation street, drowned in the Ohio river at the foot of Beaver street was recovered yesterday afternoon by John H. Ammon. It had been in the water for five hours and efforts to resuscitate failed.

The boy had gone to the river with a number of other boys for a swim. After undressing they climbed onto a crude raft which got away from its moorings and started out into the stream. The boys became panic stricken and jumped.

Gerald Leary 12, and Roy Casbourne, 11, were saved from drowning by John H. Ammon and Frank Casbourne 13. After reaching the bank they procured a long pole and pulled them into shore.

The accident happened on the Beaver Falls-Ellwood road. According to witnesses of the accident two Ohio cars were racing along the highway and one of them collided with Frisbie's car. All Day Meeting At Moravia Stop

Service At Christian And Missionary Alliance; Other Community News

(Special To The News)
MORAVIA STOP, March 29.—An all day service was held at the Christian Alliance Tabernacle on Tuesday March 26. It was a day of Christian fellowship and prayer. Beginning at 10:30 with a very impressive message on Prayer delivered by Rev. Scrip- ture of Hoover Heights. After the message a season of praise filled the time until 12:00 when the congregation adjourned to the house formerly occupied by Frank Whitman where a sumptuous dinner was served by the ladies of the church. A large delegation from New Castle, Beaver Falls, Hoover Heights, Ellwood City and other points enjoyed the hospitality of the home congregation. After dinner the company returned to the church where they spent the time in getting better acquainted with one another until 2:30 when a song service led by Rev. T. J. Keegan was followed by a season of congregational prayer. Rev. E. C. Anderson of the Pearson Street Tabernacle, New Castle spoke on Divine Healing. About ten believers were baptized and prayed for. Mrs. Anderson followed her husband with and address her subject being "The Empty Chair."

Adjournment was made for supper which was served at the same place as dinner had been served. After another social hour the Tabernacle was filled to capacity for the closing meeting of the day.

Mrs. W. H. Grimes' Sunday School class sang a song as the opening number. The Rev. Clark a missionary from Ecuador gave an illustrated lecture showing scenes from his field of labor. His talk was very interesting and instructive and showed the need for missionary work among the Indians of South America. Mr. Clark left Wednesday for his distant home in Italy. An expression of the interest felt in Rev. Clark's work was made by a gift of money.

The meetings were made more enjoyable by special music interspersed with the talks and prayers.

Miss Anderson from the Pearson Street congregation was at the piano. Rev. Keegan had his musical saw and piano accordion and Mr. Burney the Welsh singer from "The Bright Spot Mission" of Ellwood City assisted in conducting the singing.

Taken all together the day was one grand success and those present scattered to their various homes feeling that it had been good for them to be there.

Believing that Christian fellowship tends to inspiration, these meetings will be held once a month at the various churches. The next meeting will be held at Hoover Heights with Rev. Scripture in charge.

Poor In India Aid Chinese Sufferers

BOSTON, March 29.—A check of five dollars, representing their voluntary gifts of grain, oil, salt, pepper and other goods taken out of their own meagre daily income, was received by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, here, for the Chinese Tribes Settlement, Shanghai, India, with a request that it be sent to the Chinese famine sufferers in China. The check was forwarded by Miss Ella C. Hoxie, of Lawrence, Kansas, who is in charge of the schools in the Shanghai Settlement.

It is not hard for these children to understand famine, said Miss Hoxie, for they know what a year, or sometimes two or three years, without rain means in India.

The Criminal Tribes Settlement of Shanghai is one of the many similar settlements comprised of a caste of robbers who look upon crime as a profession and who have been sent from generation to generation to the British government developed idea of settlements in an attempt to meet the problem of having at large so many of these professional robbers.

The gift of these Indian children was sent to Miss Myra L. Sawyer, of Malden, Mass., who has been serving in the Williams-Porter Hospital at the American Road in Tientsin, (Tientsin), North China, since 1911 to be used to relieve a specific group of Chinese children who are suffering victims.

STOP THE FAT AND GET THIN

The way to reduction is to stop the formation of fat. Modern science has found that by turning your food into fuel and energy—by supplying a natural element that helps do that. It is much better than starvation. That modern, scientific method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Now the results in slender figures, new beauty and vitality, are seen everywhere.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So you know the effects are beneficial, and why they all occur. Learn what so many have learned in 20 years about it. Do it now. Ask your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola and learn what it means to you.

At a recent meeting of the town council it was proposed to organize a volunteer fire department. This proposal seems in favor of all and is arousing much interest among the people. Since the borough has no protection of its own it has often been found necessary to call out the Darlington fire department; which has rendered the best of service in all cases. While some of the fires were beyond control by the use of chemicals it will be remembered its use was very efficient about two years ago when the hay stack of the Joe Knipp property caught on fire.

Rural Mail Carrier Feeds Pets On Route

(International News Service) EDGEWOOD, Ia., March 29.—R. C. Wheeler, veteran rural mail carrier, started something when he began to feed a flock of quail along his route during the recent extremely cold weather.

It was all right for the first couple of days, Wheeler said. The quail were his only guests.

Then the squirrels and the rabbits got wise and invited themselves to the feed.

"Now it looks as if I'll have to carry as much grub as I do mail or else cut down on the customers," Wheeler said.

Crime Institute At Harvard To Study Criminal

(International News Service)
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 29.—How to fit punishment to the criminal, not to the crime, the problem of how to determine guilt, and what to do with those found guilty, will be the subjects of investigation by the newly formed Institute of Criminal Law at the Harvard University Law School, organized under the supervision of Professor Francis Bowes Sayre.

The founders of this new institute view present methods of dealing with criminals as insufficient, because lawyers have too long bent all their attentions upon convicting criminals, and too little upon the individual criminal and his treatment.

Professor Sayre will be aided in the management of the Institute by Sheldon Glueck, assistant professor of Criminology at Harvard beginning next year, and author of "Mental Disorders and the Criminal Law"; Sam Bass Warner, at present Professor of Law at Syracuse University, who next year will become assistant professor of Penal Legislation and Administration at Harvard; and assistant Professor John Joseph Burns of the Harvard Law School, who has been giving courses in first-year Criminal Law in collaboration with Professor Sayre.

The Institute will have as an advisory committee, Dean Roscoe Pound, Professor Joseph H. Beale, and Professor Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard Law School.

Activities of the Institute will begin next fall as part of the Harvard Law School work, and research projects will be carried out under the supervision of the four members of the Institute with the aid of graduate students and visiting professors.

Professor Sayre declared the object of the school would be the enlargement of the approach to the problem of crime from a mere study of what practically can be done to affect the conduct of human beings who menace social interests. There are, in his estimation, two problems in connection with the administration of criminal justice—guilt finding, namely the conviction of those who fall short of social standards; and the treatment of those individuals who are convicted.

To Reduce Crime
The experience of society has shown, he pointed out, that mere punishment of the prisoner does not yield adequate results in reducing crime. The problem is one of human conduct. Psychiatrists, social workers and physicians must be called into consultation and the efforts of different experts coordinated.

In the past, lawyers have been overfond of studying the outlines of crime. It is increasingly realized that the punishment must be fitted, not so much to the crime, but to the criminal. This individualization of treatment means the expanding of the problem and the calling of the other experts, Professor Sayre said.

No Time Lost From Work

Local Radio Fans Hear Orchestra In Holland Last Night

New Castle radio fans last night had the pleasure of listening to a program from Holland, relayed by Westinghouse station KDKA. At 7 o'clock the station relayed the Westminster chimes and the striking of "Big Ben" from the Victoria tower, London. About 7:30 the engineer in charge of KDKA's receiving station near Wilkinsburg, reported signals from PCJJ at Eindhoven, Holland. He broke in on a piano recital which was being given from a Pittsburgh hotel, and radio listeners heard a British march, played by a Dutch orchestra in Holland.

First Swimmers Of Season Reported

James C. Pherson, 505 Wildwood avenue, is the first person to report having seen persons swimming this season.

Last Sunday as he and his boys were walking up along the Neshannock creek, about two hundred yards east of Hill's Bathing Beach, they were somewhat surprised to see four boys having a good time in the water of the creek. They were clad just as they came into the world and three of them appeared to be enjoying the cold water of the stream. They said they were enjoying themselves.

Commuting By Plane Is Plan For Chicagoans

By FRANCIS ARMSTRONG
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

CHICAGO, March 29.—Chicago's commuters may soon be using airplanes as they hurry from business in the loop to the quiet of Evanston, Wilmette, Lake Forest and other suburban districts.

The first step has been taken, with opening by Harbor Master C. J. Agnew of the protected waters around Navy pier for use of airplanes in taking off and landing.

Navy pier is then, is but a short distance from the loop district, so that hydroplane commuters may swing out onto the pier by taxi in three or four minutes after leaving their offices, step into their planes and take off for home 30 or 40 miles from the business district.

Use Amphibians
Chicago and its suburban districts are peculiarly well situated, according to aviation enthusiasts, for the use of hydroplanes and amphibians, and it is expected that out-of-town residents may be flying daily as far as 200 miles to summer residences on the upper reaches of Lake Michigan.

The pier and a breakwater from a shielded basin of water half a mile long and 400 feet wide, ample space, according to flyers, for landing and taking off of a number of planes, that might be moored alongside the pier.

And when weather is generally fair, outer breakwaters from a large landing sea, with a concrete paved beach, on which planes might discharge passengers without fear of damage to hulls.

Intercity seaplane and amphibian traffic is expected to be developed this year by several air transportation companies, as result of landing facilities that will be offered here.

Construction of a water ramp along the harbor beach of Lake Shore Drive and Ohio street may be undertaken, so that planes can taxi to the beach, let down wheels and park ashore.

Lakefront Airport
While Chicago's lakefront airport, proposed for use by all air lines running into the city, still is in a nebulous stage because of the failure of taxpayers to vote the necessary bond issue at the last election, it is believed that some of the traffic may be handled through use of amphibian planes.

Hunt, Wentworth, Chicago representative of the Sikorsky amphibian company, and other experts in marine aviation, have declared the harbor will make an excellent landing station for the combination planes.

Construction of a sand beach, according to Lieut. Col. W. C. Weeks, district engineer, will have to wait congressional action, however.

Find Volcanic Dust Of Old Eruptions

International News Service
STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 29.—Evidence of at least six volcanic eruptions that date back Pennsylvania with fine dust deposits was recently discovered in the limestone formations of this district by Prof. C. A. Bonine, head of the department of geology and mineralogy of Pennsylvania State College.

This was the first time volcanic dust has been discovered in any earth deposits of Pennsylvania, Prof. Bonine said. His discovery was substantiated by Prof. A. P. Honness, also of Penn State, who examined the specimen deposits.

The deposits are very fine grained clay, formed by the alteration of the dust-like particles of volcanic ash as they fell into the inland sea that covered this region several million years ago.

Six beds of the volcanic ash were discovered, each measuring from one inch to nine inches in thickness. The beds were grouped into three zones, three in one formation, two in another and one in a third. According to Prof. Bonine, these zones were former approximately 1,000,000 years apart.

The volcanic vents from which the ash was blown were probably in Kentucky or Virginia, where beds of similar ash of the same geological age have been found.

Soviet Will Exile 45 Princes And Noblemen

International News Service

MOSCOW, March 29.—A group of 45 princes and noblemen, who by methods not yet clear succeeded in retaining possession of part of their old landed estates almost under the noses of the proletarian leaders in the Kremlin, will be banished and exiled on orders of the Commissariat of Justice.

These last "specimens of feudal Russia," as they are called, include such court favorites as Prince Obolensky and his three brothers, Count Sheremetev, Madame Nariskina and the former millionaire industrialist Levnikov and Larinov. They lived on a cluster of estates near Padoisk, less than 30 miles from Moscow.

Two Trapped Miners Are Rescued Today

Two Miners Entombed Since Yesterday Afternoon Are Finally Dug Out

International News Service.
SHAMOKIN, Pa., March 29.—Rescue crews working throughout the night early today succeeded in reaching two miners employed by the Shamokin Colliers Company at the Cameron mine after they had been entombed since about 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

The men who were brought to the surface alive and uninjured were George Ritzman and Walter Adams, both of Shamokin.

The men were entombed when hundreds of tons of coal fell without warning some time after they had fired shots which apparently had no effect. The men had continued with other work after the shots had been fired without apparent results and were trapped when the weakened seams let go.

Rescue crews immediately were assembled and after laboring for more than 12 hours succeeded in breaking their way through the tons of coal and rescuing the trapped men.

Stock Market Passes Through Severe Test

Security Markets Are Closed
Today, Will Reopen On Monday Morning

Bankers And Economists Feel That 1929 Will Be Very Prosperous Year

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor.
NEW YORK, March 29.—In observance of Good Friday, all security markets are closed today, and in the interests of a well conducted security market, the big board and other New York exchanges will be locked tight until next Monday. Many of the commodity exchanges also are closed for the two-day period, but, as today is not a legal holiday, the banks and clearing houses, as well as the bulk of retail establishments, are open as usual.

The Stock Market in the last few days has passed through as severe a test as it has encountered in any of the post-war period. Millions of dollars have been marked off the valuation of industrial stocks and the losses by small traders in the market have been the most severe since the "big smash" of March, 1926, when the whole speculative structure collapsed under the crushing weight of an avalanche of selling orders forced upon the market through no choice of a good proportion of the sellers.

Cave-In Causes Gloom
When the whole speculative structure caves in values evaporate like the mist before the sunshine, and traders who have been skating on thin ice to the point where they must produce more money or see their holdings of speculative stocks swept away by the tide of receding prices. The gloom settles over Wall Street and the Bears gather for the slaughter. The speculative lambs bleat out in agony, but this is without much effect on the Bulls and Bears, who have their own game to play and are not much concerned over the losses forced upon the small trader by the sudden shifting of the speculative winds.

What has been accomplished by the Reserve Board in its campaign to squeeze out bank loans from the speculative market? This week's reports showed a decline of only $144,000,000 in brokers' loans, where at least $300,000,000 was looked for by the money market experts. Taken in conjunction with the $166,000,000 per cent increase of the previous week, it appears that the succeeding process has been a failure, unless, of course, there are other important elements entering into the transaction.

Bankers and economists comment confidently about the high rate of business activity and the prospect of a continuance of good business activity through the first half of 1929. With a good back-log of 1928 earnings and orders well booked up for the coming season it is hardly the time to look for a Bear market. A manipulated money market may keep stock prices down for a certain period, but sooner or later the pressure must be removed and good stocks will seek—and find, their true level.

VOICES HIS PROTEST

New Castle, Pa.,
March 28, 1929.

George W. Conway,
Editor The News,
New Castle, Pa.
Dear Sir:—

With your kind permission, I would like a little of your space in which to voice a protest and ask a question or two that is bothering me at the present time.

At the present time there is an agitation for the paving of Meyer avenue on which my home is located and in which I have that pride of the average home owner.

I am interested as much as any other normal person in the improvement of the street, which would be beneficial to my property but when approached this year in the matter of signing to have the street paved, stated that I thought another time would be more opportune, in view of increasing taxes and general conditions here. At least that was my honest opinion stated by me. I hold that every citizen has the right to his opinion whether it is in exact harmony with that of the other fellow or not.

But the question that bothers me is whether I, a taxpayer and home owner, must submit to anonymous telephone calls from some person, evidently very anxious to have the street paved, regardless of conditions, in which I am called numerous unkindly blasphemous names because I am not in favor of paving now and also told that I am not a good citizen and other unkindly things.

My record in the past twenty-five years during which I have been a resident of this city is sufficient answer to this cowardly person who telephoned me. I believe it a better record than he who called me. Yours for fair play and decency.

New Castle Woman Driver Makes Record Auto Trip To Florida

What is believed to be a new auto speed record between New Castle and St. Petersburg, Fla., is credited to Mrs. A. L. Quinby, Glenmore Boulevard, New Castle, who made the trip in three days.

She has returned here following a six weeks' motor trip to Florida and Cuba. She was accompanied by Mrs. E. L. Passmore, of Youngstown. She drove 662 miles in one of the three days.

Starting at eight o'clock on a Thursday morning from this city, they arrived at the Suwannee hotel, St. Petersburg, at midnight, Saturday.

The distance over the route they travelled is 1556 miles and the driving time 39 hours. Half of the trip was made in one day, when on the third day, they motored 662 miles in 17 hours, from Charlotte, N. C. to St. Petersburg.

The Quinby car travelled through Indiana, Bedford, Greenville, to Hagerstown. The road was covered with a foot of snow when they left the preceding night. However, it had been opened for traffic by the highway department and the driving was easy. Winchester, Virginia, was reached at seven o'clock.

They followed the Shenandoah Valley pike, known for its beautiful scenery and historical association to Staunton, Va., and thence over the Blue Ridge mountains, ending the second day's driving at Charlotte, N. C.

The route continued through Columbia, S. C., Augusta, Ga., and at Jacksonville, thence via the west coast route through Gainesville to Tampa and St. Petersburg, their destination.

Today Mrs. Quinby expressed great praise for the wonderful highways in Florida. She said there are three main highways running to Miami, two on the east coast and one on the west, with a network of roads crossing the state. All are in condition and paved mostly with concrete.

Two weeks were spent in the "Sunshine city" and automobile trips in the vicinity. A week's cruise to Havana, Cuba, and return was enjoyed.

In speaking of the motoring in the south, Mrs. Quinby said:

"We continued southward, ferried 40 miles across Tampa Bay to Bradenton and connected with the highway which follows the coast line of the Gulf of Mexico."

"We travelled through Sarasota, Ft. Meyers and Naples and crossed the state to Miami on the Tamiami trail, opened last year. This trail makes it possible for motorists to make a complete circuit of the Florida peninsula."

Motoring is equally as interesting around Miami and is really a necessity. Leading northward the shore line seems to be the more popular highway, passing through many beautiful resorts, including Palm Beach, Daytona Beach and St. Augustine to Jacksonville."

The return trip was made by way of Savannah, Raleigh, Richmond and Washington. In speaking of this route it was explained that it is expected that by the end of this year this route will be entirely paved.

Mrs. Quinby is a motor enthusiast, a member of the New Castle Motor club and has made several long distance tours in record time. Two years ago she motored from New Castle to Los Angeles in eight days, but has evidently made a new record on the trip south in three days and also in driving 662 miles in one day. The longest mileage in one day on the drive to the Pacific coast was 504 miles.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

THE KING BUSINESS

Prince Abdel Kadir was the favorite son of the late sultan of Turkey. If the kingdom had survived the prince might be jostling for the throne. Instead he has been looking for a job in the orchestra in a restaurant in Budapest, Hungary. Well, well, the king business in Europe isn't so good as it once was. Most of the kings on the checker board of the world have been taken out of play. Those who are left listen to the people. They are the watchers at the polls.

WHAT IS IT WORTH? There seems no such thing as putting a money value on anything and being sure that it is accurate. You may want a thing so much that your price is absurdly high judged by somebody else's desire or perhaps you wouldn't pay ten dollars for what somebody else would gladly pay a thousand.

Did you know that the cost of discovering the new world by Christopher Columbus was only $6,000? Columbus got a salary of $270 a year. Sailors got two dollars a month. The ships were fitted up for $2,300. Food cost a dollar a head a month.

Figure America's wealth in billions. Put it alongside the $6,000 that Columbus spent. Who shall say what anything is worth. You never can tell.

LET'S BE CAREFUL

Says a wise lawyer, George Wickertsham: "We used to think that war was the sport of kings. It's in great danger of becoming the toy of democracies."

Talkers and writers have long been claiming war upon diplomats and rulers who sit around a table and move men like checkers. But let's watch out. The passions of a democracy may run as wild or wilder than those of a monarchy. Rulers and diplomats may move more slowly than the people themselves. The flame of a certain kind of misguided patriotism may run across a nation like a prairie fire.

PROHIBITION INVESTIGATION

All well wishers of the republic will hope that President Hoover's prohibition commission will do more than look into the manner of law enforcement. The people are ready for an examination of the whole matter of prohibition. There are no phases of the subject which a committee on inquiry can properly leave out.

Aged Recluse Has Close Call Owing To Road Condition

Ill And Hungry He Had No Way Of Making Known His Needs To Neighbors

GREENVILLE, Pa., March 29.—Impassable roads placed John Wagner of Sandy Lake township in a dangerous predicament. Traffic has been almost impossible on all roads near the Milo Egbert farm, on which Wagner, an aged recluse lives. No one could get to Mr. Wagner's home and Mr. Wagner could not get out.

He was found this week by Enoch Shaw, a farmer living in the same township, lying ill and hungry in his little home, alone, without food and fuel, since February 27th. The old man explained, since he had no telephone and he was so ill he could not walk any distance, he had just to wait for someone to come. And the roads had been so bad, traffic had been almost shut out all spring, no one had passed his home, which is situated in a field, some distance from the road.

Mr. Wagner was in a dangerous condition when found and was placed immediately in the care of his neighbors, who will take charge of him until a son and daughter can be notified.

Growth Of Trees Is Limited To 40 Days During Each Season

HARRISBURG, March 28.—When do trees grow? Investigation of tree growth conducted under the direction of State Forester Joseph S. Illick of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters has brought to light some interesting revelations.

"The belief is prevalent," says Mr. Illick, "that trees grow throughout the general growing or vegetation season, which embraces in Pennsylvania from 120 to 130 days, and extends from the last of May to the first of November. In the spring, when the leaves exhibit their autumnal coloration. This is a mere supposition, for most of the native and introduced forest trees in the Mount Alto state forest, Franklin county, were found to make 90 per cent of their height growth in less than 40 days."

In the course of study thousands of tree measurements were taken. Many trees, including more than half the different kinds found in the state, were measured at regular, usually weekly, intervals and detailed records of temperatures and rainfall were also kept in order to interpret the influence of climatic factors. Over 200 trees were measured during the 1928 growth season and in addition certain groups of trees were measured both in morning and evening.

Not all forest trees begin to grow at the same time. Some start early in spring, while others begin rather late. The wild black cherry is the first forest tree to begin height growth in southern Pennsylvania. Its buds begin to elongate about the 4th of April. The domestic cherry begins growth about four days later. Sweet buckeye begins about April 6, while pine about April 18, and tulip tree about April 25.

Species Meet

Pennsylvania is the meeting ground of many northern and southern trees and the southern varieties begin growth later in their northern natural extension, or where artificially planted in this state. The eastern catpaw, from the South Atlantic states, starts growth with us during latter May, and other typically southern trees as persimmon, Kentucky coffee tree and bald cypress, postpone growth until late spring. This is a fortunate provision of nature, which defers their growth until the period of frost danger is past.

The first tree to complete its height growth of the season in Pennsylvania is sweet buckeye. It stops growing in the southern part of the state during the second week in May, and by June 15 one can find full-sized winter buds for the spring of the following year. One year on June 10th, 73 different tree species were examined and it was found that 70 per cent of them had ceased height at the same time. Most of our trees cease this in spring, while others begin rather late.

Only a few continue height growth into July, and by August 1st has ceased for all our trees.

It also was discovered that the first trees to complete growth are not always the first that begin growth in spring. Some of the first species to begin growth may take long to complete it, while others that commence late may complete the season's growth relatively early. Larch, for instance, is one of the first to open its buds in April and may continue until middle or latter July, while Norway spruce starts about May 5 and by June 15th has made more than 90 per cent of its growth, and all of it by the end of the month.

Another interesting discovery was that of intermittent growth periods, that is, some trees may grow a while, rest for some time, and then resume growth. Such periodicity of growth appears to be peculiar to certain species and is not unusual. Thus pin oak, chestnut oak and pitch pine frequently begin to place a second growth growth 10 to 25 days after the original growth period is over.

Considered most interesting of all was the discovery that trees make most of their growth at night. The greatest growth is usually late at night, and the least growth in the afternoon when the trees are busy manufacturing food materials. Norway spruce actually made 82 per cent of its height growth at night, white pine made 61 per cent, alantus 65 per cent. On the average it was found that most trees make two-thirds of their height growth at night.

Penn. Mother Proves Claim

Children don't ordinarily take to medicine but Doris Nye, one of them, proved that it shouldn't be called a medicine at all. It's more like a rich, concentrated food. It's pure, wholesome, sweet to the taste and sweet in your child's little stomach. It builds up and strengthens weak, puny, underweight children, makes them eat heartily, brings the roses back to their cheeks, makes them playful, energetic, full of life. And no bilious, headachy, constipated, feverish, fretful baby or child ever failed to respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup on their little bowels. It starts lazy bowels quick, cleans them out thoroughly, tones and strengthens them so they continue to act normally of their own accord.

Millions of mothers know about California Fig Syrup from experience. A Pennsylvania mother, Mrs. Mary Nye, 231 South 11th St., Philadelphia, says: "California Fig Syrup is certainly all that's claimed for it. I have proved that with my little Doris. She was a bottle baby and very delicate. Her bowels were weak. I started her on Fig Syrup when she was a few months old and it regulated her quick. I have used it with her ever since for colds and every little set back and her wonderful condition tells better than words how it helps."

Don't be imposed on. See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name "California" so you'll get the genuine, famous for 50 years.

Illinois Governor Revives Society

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 29.—The executive mansion here once more shines forth as the social center of Illinois.

During the administration of Gov. Len Small the mansion knew few social functions of more than a personal nature.

With the induction into office of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, however, the executive's home began to assume some of its past brilliance, with the promise that this is to be increased.

Mrs. Emmerson and her daughter, Mrs. Harold Watson, have adopted a regular "at home" each Thursday afternoon. In addition to this various groups are being entertained. Members of the legislature have been in the mansion several times as have members of the state supreme court, state officials and others.

In bygone years parties staged at the mansion attained a brilliance and prominence unrivaled throughout the state and the present regime is expected to regain much of the prestige which has been allowed to fall away.

Annual Oratory Fixed For Purdue University

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 29.—An annual co-ed oratorical contest, has been assured for Purdue university here by the donation of a loving cup by H. D. Lodde, a local jeweler. The contest has been set for March 29.

The preliminary of try outs for the co-ed contest was held March 16, L. S. Spuller, university debate manager, has announced.

In this preliminary all but ten contestants were eliminated. Speeches were limited to seven minutes. In the final contest on March 29 each contestant will be allowed nine minutes.

Unemployed To Run Big Norway Mines

OSLO, March 29.—A bold industrial experiment will be made in Norway during the coming spring.

The unemployed in the town of Evnes in Northern Norway are to take over the big ore mines of A. S. O'Brien Muhlfelt which have been closed down since 1923. The mines are owned by the Beer Southern Company of Frankfurt-on-Main, Germany. After having spent nearly $3,000,000 on the undertaking the Germans gave up because production was so expensive.

A working arrangement has now been entered into with Beer Southern by which the unemployed will rent the whole undertaking at the price of $3.25 a year, this sum being the only liability. Southern further promised to purchase the entire production of the mines at market price.

Workers and employees are to run the mines as a joint undertaking, and have obtained a first mortgage loan to be used as working capital. The estimates reckon a production of 4,000 tons a month, allowing a daily wage of about $1.50. "But," say the unemployed, "even if we have to work for less we shall be glad."

The small place of Evnes has 3,000 inhabitants, and practically the whole community is dependent on the mines. Thanks to improvements in machinery, 150 men will be able to produce the same amount of ore as 300 men before the war.

Chicago City Holdings Take Jump In Value

CHICAGO, March 29.—Individual realtors are not the only ones who have been making money on land values here.

The city of Chicago has increased value of its real holdings more than 700 per cent.

In a report filed March 18, Joseph P. Peacock, municipal real estate agent, showed property valued at $57,922,649. Since 1850, however, the city expended only $7,647,000 for real estate.

Included in the Peacock report are thirty parcels located in the loop, bought for $800,000 and now valued at $25,000,000.

Pulling Dead Teeth Lengthens Life Span

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—By removal of all pre-disease causes, the span of life may be lengthened is the theory of Dr. William Erner, Temple University dental school alumnus.

In explanation of his theory Dr. Erner advocates the extraction of all dead, nerveless or devitalized teeth in marked contrast to the practice of many dental experts. "The dead or nerveless tooth is the greatest pre-disease factor in the dental field," insists Dr. Erner.

Hazing Carried On In Many Southern Schools

UNIVERSITY, Ala., March 29.—Serious hazing of freshmen is being carried on in fully 56 per cent of the Southern colleges, according to Dr. Vernon Martin, professor of education at the University of Alabama. Dr. Martin has been making a study of hazing in various colleges of the country.

New Secretary Of Agriculture Hasn't Much To Say Just Yet

Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News

WASHINGTON, March 29.—It's all very well to blame the boys," grumbled the agriculture department's official spokesman, in behalf of Secretary Arthur M. Hyde, "for being the slowest of all the new cabinet members to tell his troubles to the newspapers."

"I know the others threw their doors open to the reporters the first thing, and he's suffered them off for two weeks."

"It's hardly a fair comparison, just the same."

"What," continued the spokesman, "does Secretary of Commerce Lamont answer, when the correspondents ask him about his policies? Why, he says he's going to carry on exactly like President Hoover when he was commerce secretary—and everybody's satisfied."

"Or Secretary Good or Secretary Adams—at the war and navy departments. Oh, they intend to keep on getting the soldiers and sailors up bright and early every morning—their buttons polished, their shoes shined and all that."

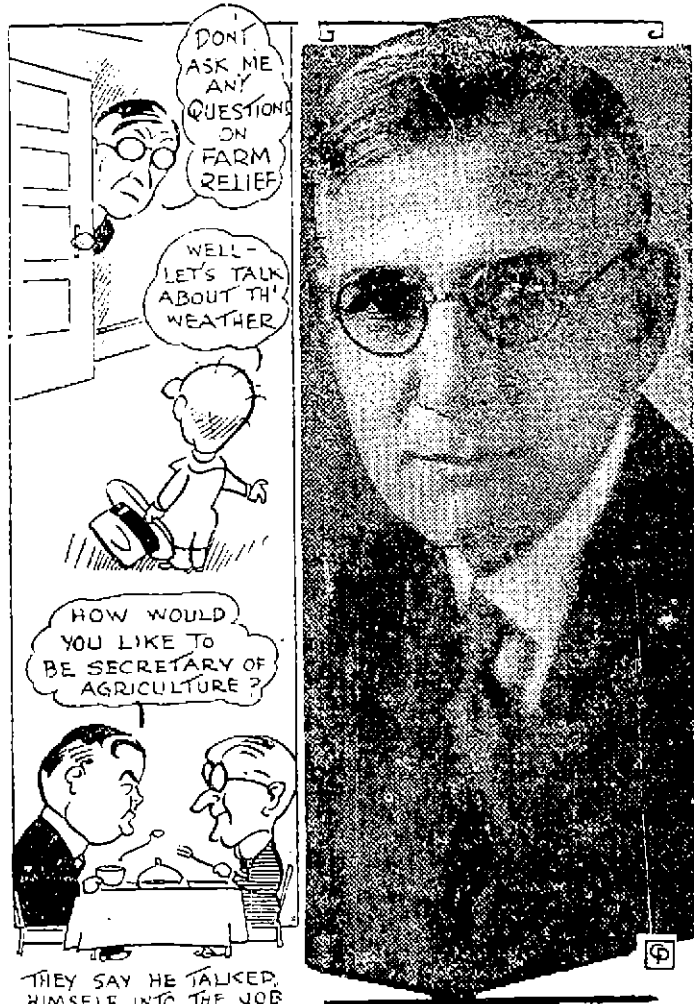

"Or Postmaster General Brown? The bills will be delivered regularly as usual. The customary collections will be made. Perhaps if the new chief wants to be sensational, he promises to improve the quality of stinkum on stamps."

"But," quoth the spokesman, "let a caller walk in on Arthur M. Hyde and inquire, 'Mr. Secretary, what's your agricultural relief program?'"

"What in heck is he to say?" "Secretary Hyde has not found the correct solution to this problem yet. He frankly confesses as much, when finally he began letting the Washington chroniclers in. Or, rather, as he expressed it, it would be premature to enter into a discussion of farm relief now."

It was a fortnight, almost to an hour, following formal announcement of his appointment, before the first of his appointment was permitted to pass the new secretary's official portals, in the main agriculture departmental building at the foot of Thirteenth street, on the Mall.

Even the admission was predicated. It must be owned that this stipu-

upon the understanding that the subject of farm relief was taboo.

Letting made conversation with Secretary Hyde rather difficult. Insect pests—to talk about—will not be in season for another month or two. The Missourian is not a specialist on agronomy, like his predecessor, ex-Secretary Jardine. He shied—almost as skittishly as if agricultural relief had been mentioned—away from a question concerning the possible loss of certain farm markets through the workings of the prohibition law.

The upshot was that the interview, as an interview, fell pretty flat.

Not much remains but to tell how the new secretary of agriculture looks.

For one thing he is the cabinet baby—only 52 years old.

He is quite a tall, angular, rangy individual, clad, on the occasion in question, in modest navy blue.

His hair is thinning, he wears glasses and his face is deeply lined—which was true of Secretary Jardine's also. They two are not unlike. Secretary Hyde's photographs look somewhat morose, but he is not at all so in fact—on the contrary, as sociable as a man can be expected to be who evidently fears each word he utters

Seeking Control Of Sharon Paper

Former New Castle Newspaperman Files Suit In Mercer Court Today

MERCER, March 28.—Proceedings in equity have been filed here by W. L. Aiken of Sharon against A. C. Dickinson, asking that a court order be issued forcing the defendant to sell to him 101 shares of stock of the News-Telegraph company, publisher of the Sharon News-Telegraph, at a price of $22,725, or $225 a share. The price is alleged to be the option price made on the stock of the defendant to a Pittsburgh newspaper brokerage firm.

The bill sets forth that under a contract signed by the defendant with the plaintiffs and C. B. Lartz, the right to purchase the stock is embodied. The contract was drawn up in 1925.

Of the 1,000 capital shares of stock, A. C. Dickinson owns 600 shares, the plaintiff and C. B. Lartz 200 shares each. If Mr. Dickinson is forced to turn over 101 shares of the stock under the court order asked, control of the company will pass to W. L. Aiken and C. B. Lartz.

Fisher Vetoes Eight Measures

Governor Fisher Signs Seven Bills During Morning; Turns Down Eight

ARTIFICIAL FLOWER BILL NOT APPROVED

By WILLIAM B. BROWN,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, March 29.—Although the capitol was closed today Governor John S. Fisher and the staff of the executive office were busy clearing away the steady accumulation of measures which have been acted upon finally by both houses of the legislature.

The governor during the morning signed seven bills and wrote veto messages for eight others which he did not approve.

A bill sponsored by Representative Peters, Montgomery, which would have made it a criminal offense for unauthorized persons to sell or give away artificial flowers of veterans' organizations was vetoed on the grounds that it is unconstitutional.

The governor's veto message asserted that the purpose of the bill is commendable and that he would approve a bill properly drawn which would allow artificial flowers to be sold for the sale of flowers to raise funds for veterans' organizations.

"Artificial poppies and artificial forget-me-nots cannot be patented or copyrighted," the governor said. "If they could only congress could grant such monopolies. Clearly, it is beyond the power of the legislature to punish as a criminal offense a gift of artificial flowers. Such legislation would be indirect conflict with constitutional rights."

The governor also vetoed a bill sponsored by Representative D. Glenn Moore, Washington, which would have permitted school directors without financial or territorial limitation to contribute funds to fire companies.

Questions Policy
Such contributions by the governor termed as "laudable" but questioned the wisdom of such a policy pointing out that the fire companies of the state now receive approximately $735,000 annually from the taxes levied on foreign fire insurance companies.

Two bills sponsored by Representative Haines, Bucks, failed to meet with the governor's approval. One of them would have permitted seeds which did not meet Pennsylvania standards to be considered as "public nuisances." As drawn the governor believed the bill tended toward unconstitutionality and failed to prescribe that Pennsylvania grown seeds would have to meet the same standards.

The other Haines measure which would have required agents taking orders for oleomargarine to take a Pennsylvania license, was held to be "clearly unconstitutional." The governor asserted that if the oleo comes from sources outside of Pennsylvania, decisions of the Supreme court prevent this state requiring a license from the men who take orders for it.

When the governor refused to approve the first Wilkin repealer he merely mentioned that it was a duplication of a similar measure approved in 1905.

When another repealer reached him which also was a duplication the governor took occasion to remind the legislature that more care was necessary even in acting upon repealers. Repealers have been passed without the formality of a roll call.

Schwartz Bill Vetoed
"I desire to take this opportunity," the governor wrote, "of pointing out that no useful purpose is to be served by enacting a law purporting to repeal an act which has unquestionably been repealed by prior legislation. Such enactments waste the time of the legislature and unnecessarily enlarge the pamphlet laws."

The governor also frowned upon, to the extent of several hundred words, the Schwartz bill which would have permitted the chief of the division of housing and sanitation in Philadelphia to permit use of a building as a ment without a sewer connection if a bond was posted for such installation at the end of six months.

The bill did not fix the amount of the bond necessary in such cases and the governor termed the measure a "step backward" in good housing.

Because it was a duplication measure which he already had approved the governor vetoed a bill of Representative Reyburn, Westmoreland, which would have prohibited assessors from being school directors.

In addition to the bill creating an additional judge in Washington county the bills approved included one by Representative Harter, Northumberland, which will permit the Shamokin state hospital to receive a grant of land from the Reading railroad.

Plan For Potters Outing At Park

Annual outing of the employees of the Pottery industry in this country and their families and friends will be an event of June 15 at Cascade Park, it was announced here today by H. W. Sontum and Harry Robinson, local pottery workers, who have been designated by the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, to arrange for the big program issued for the event.

These men have been given the endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce as official solicitors for the program and have already started on this work of preparing the program of the event.

At the annual outing held last year at Meyer's Lake, there were twenty-eight thousand people in attendance and Messrs. Sontum and Robinson announced that it is expected that this figure will be greatly exceeded here on June 15. In fact it is expected to be one of the largest picnics of the year at Cascade Park.

POLICE GET NUMEROUS SUSPICIOUS CALLS

The police were kept quite busy last night answering suspicious person calls to various parts of the city. Two such calls were received from the New Castle Hospital district but the police were unable to locate the persons responsible for the call.

Another was from Atlantic avenue, where the police did apprehend a man, who had been the cause of the call. He proved to be a man out walking for the benefit of his health and was released.

New Grand Jury Probe Planned In Philadelphia

Judge Edwin O. Lewis Not Satisfied With Results Of First Grand Jury

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—A second investigation of Philadelphia's racketeers who escaped the tolls of the law by the traditional silence of the underworld during the eight months of investigation by the racket grand jury dismissed yesterday, loomed today. Declaring himself unsatisfied with the results of the long probe, Judge Edwin O. Lewis, instigator of the probe, intimated today a second grand jury may be called to carry on the work started by the ex-cused jury.

The jurors made their 10th and final report late yesterday, admitting failure to discover the slayer of Hughey McLoon, the little hunchback whose death led to the killing of Daniel O'Leary and started the probe.

The jury made a number of recommendations and branded Max "Boo Boo" Hoff as one of the leaders in the bootleg racket here, but admitted its failure to procure evidence that would permit the indictment and prosecution of the little fight manager.

Like his father also, Mr. Flinn was identified with the Independent Republican movement here and was a strong backer of Theodore Roosevelt.

Congressman Indicted For Smuggling Liquor

Representative Michaelson Of Illinois Indicted By Federal Grand Jury

Trunk Belonging To Congressman Starts Leaking; Arrested By Dry Agents

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Rep. M. Alfred Michaelson (R) of Illinois, who has been indicted by a federal grand jury in Florida for smuggling liquor into the United States.

This much was admitted today at the department of justice, but why the indictment, which was returned last October, has never been followed up by trial action remains to be disclosed.

Michaelson, who represents the seventh district of Illinois, was endorsed by the Anti-Saloon League in his recent campaign, and only a month ago voted for the Jones Act, which makes violations such as he has been indicted for punishable by five years in prison with a fine of $10,000.

The department was disinclined to divulge much information about the indictment of the congressman, but it was learned that it followed a visit by him to Cuba last fall. He came dry in congress, among them Rep. Hudson (R) of Michigan, Rep. Morgan (R) of Ohio, Rep. Gibson (R) of Vermont, Rep. Hastings (D) of Oklahoma, Rep. Hall (R) of North Dakota, Rep. Williams (R) of Illinois and Rep. Selvig (R) of Minnesota. All of these were recorded as voting for the Jones act.

Rep. Morgan has denied that he brought in any liquor, as alleged by newspaper stories printed in New York. Morgan and Hudson are two of the main pillars of the Anti-Saloon league in the house.

Both the treasury and justice departments have adopted a "hush, hush" attitude toward inquiries concerning the Panama party, although the treasury did contend today that no orders were issued to the customs authorities in New York for "freedom of the port" for the returning congressmen.

Very Disinterested.

All that was done in their cases, said Assistant Secretary Lowndes, in charge of prohibition and customs, was to accord them the usual "courtesy" of the port, which entitles them only to prompt and expeditious examination of their baggage. If the customs agents at New York allowed them to pass through without examination of their luggage—well, shrugged the treasury, that it is up to the customs authorities in New York.

Treasury officials said there was no disposition on their part to investigate the affair. Department of justice officials were similarly disinterested.

Unless congress evinces a desire to investigate itself on the prohibition question—and those who believe that can be numbered on the fingers of the armless wonder—it appeared today that the "Panama party" would be allowed to die a natural death from inattention.

Admits Indictment.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 29.—Admitting that an indictment against Rep. M. Alfred Michaelson of Chicago, for violating the prohibition law was on the docket in his office, E. R. Williams, clerk of the federal district court house here, declared today the record could not be seen until his office opens Saturday.

Williams declined to divulge any further details other than that "bond had not been returned."

Rep. Michaelson was indicted by the federal grand jury here last October.

Cochran On Trip.

PITTSBURGH, March 29.—Congressman M. Clyde Kelly, at his office here today, stated that he had not been a member of the congressional party whose recent return from Panama has revealed that Congressman T. H. LaGuardia of New York had started home from Haiti with a fat supply of liquor.

Mrs. Kelly and the congressman's daughter, Ruth, 11, did accompany the party, but Rep. Kelly said he was unable to get away.

The only Pennsylvania congressman on the trip was Thomas Cochran of Mercer county, according to Rep. Kelly.

Rep. Kelly's name was at first mentioned as being on the junket and his name was on the treasury list forwarded to customs authorities in New York to be shown courtesy privileges.

Council Opposed To Paying Bill

Erie County Man Would Exempt Companies Of Paying Share

Representative Bart Richards, city district, is certainly living up to his campaign promises as to keeping the people informed, it appears from action made known in city council today when they stated that he had been forwarding to the city copies of all measures dealing with Third Class city legislation.

It was stated that one of the bills received showed where a lawmaker of Erie county would exempt traction companies pro rata cost for paying between rails, something which council doesn't like.

The bill has passed the senate and is now in the house. According to information received here today Representative Richards is strictly opposed to the exemption.

Bill Tilden's repentance apparently was real. He plays more like an amateur.

Council Favors Johnstown Action

Believes Each Location Of Chain Store Should Bring Separate Fee

Members of city council today concurred in the action of city council of Johnstown, Pa., which passed a resolution on the license tax of chain stores.

At the present time the "business" and not the "locations" are taxed. A corporation can have a dozen chain stores in a Third class city and only pay a fee of $100.

pay between $5 and $100 for "locations." Johnstown council, likewise New Castle council does not believe this just to local merchants.

At the present time there is a bill in the house at Harrisburg to assess each location separately.

Council's action today will be made known to local representatives of the voters and the passage of the bill is desired.

This is one matter that is backed by the League of Third Class cities.

Murdered To Shine As Hero In Eyes Of Girl, Say Police

By ROY J. GIBBONS
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

CHICAGO, March 29.—Stanley Reichel, 25-year-old motorman, faces the electric chair here because, police say, he cold-bloodedly planned and carried out the murder of an innocent dupe in an effort to shine as a hero in the eyes of a girl and her wealthy parent.

His daughter, Frances, so John Maslanka, the father, had indicated, might look higher than a motorman for a mate. Thus was the germ of the plot planted in the brain of the infatuated Reichel, who himself is married but estranged from his wife. Police authorities say he worked the entire scheme out in advance with Machiavellian cunning. As they re-enact it, the boy waxed desperate over his failure in the game of hearts. He conceived the thought to blackmail the father of $500, threatening his daughter's life as the penalty for non-payment.

The father merely reported the attempted extortion to the authorities, but the girl was distraught. As Reichel had planned, she told him of the blackmail letter because he previously had concocted a falsehood for her consumption to the effect he had quit his job on the street cars and entered the secret service.

Plot Lacked Action.
More letters followed the first. When the plot lacked was action—and something to give it substance. Reichel, investigators declare, supplied this essential by brutally beating to death Michael Hrybski, an automobile installment collector, in a garage at the rear of the Reichel home. Then, with the blood of his victim still on his hands, he hurried to the home of Miss Maslanka to bask in the warmth of her approval of the hero who had tracked down and killed in single-handed combat the extortioner who had threatened her life.

It is so the police paint the picture. Reichel admits the killing, but claims he was attacked by Hrybski and struck him down in self-defense.

His story is fantastic and, police say, shot through with falsehoods. In a seven-page statement, which he did not sign, Reichel declares that his victim really was the blackmailer, down personally. Hrybski, he intimates, perhaps learned that he was under suspicion and lay in wait for him (Reichel) in the garage.

"I had proof on March 18 that Hrybski had written those letters to Mr. Maslanka and I asked Mr. Maslanka if he wanted the man caught," he declared Reichel. "He told me he didn't. Then I told Frances about it and she said she would never be satisfied until the man who wrote those letters was killed. Her mother and her sister, Stephanie, told her she was crazy to talk that way."

"Tuesday night as I was putting my car into my garage, I noticed the door was partly open. I started in and saw a strange car standing there. Then something hit me on the head. I was dizzy but not knocked out, and got hold of a lamp and fender bracket and swung. A man fell down. I went into the house and then, realizing that my hat had been knocked off in the scuffle, returned to the garage. It was only then that I saw the man I had hit was Hrybski."

Goes To Tell Girl.
"I started for the Maslanka home to tell Frances what I had done before I called the police. It was going to show her that the man who wrote the letters to her father was dead. When I arrived at her house the police arrested me."

Later Reichel insisted Hrybski had shown him a letter that Hrybski said was to be mailed to Maslanka that night. This letter has not been received.

The Maslanka girl told the authorities that she had met Reichel when they both worked in a piano factory. Later he told her he had left the company and was doing secret service work, she said.

"I did not know that Reichel was married," she said. "He was no more than a casual acquaintance and I certainly was not in love with him."

Reminds Other Murders.
The murder of Hrybski bears a certain resemblance to the killing by Carl Warden of his wife and an unidentified dupe known as the "Ragged Stranger," here several years ago, and to the murder of little Bobby Franks by Loeb and Leopold, police say. In the Franks murder case, the boy's father was instructed to throw the ransom demanded from a moving train at a certain spot. The Maslanka extortion letters demanded that the $500 also be thrown from a moving vehicle, a street car.

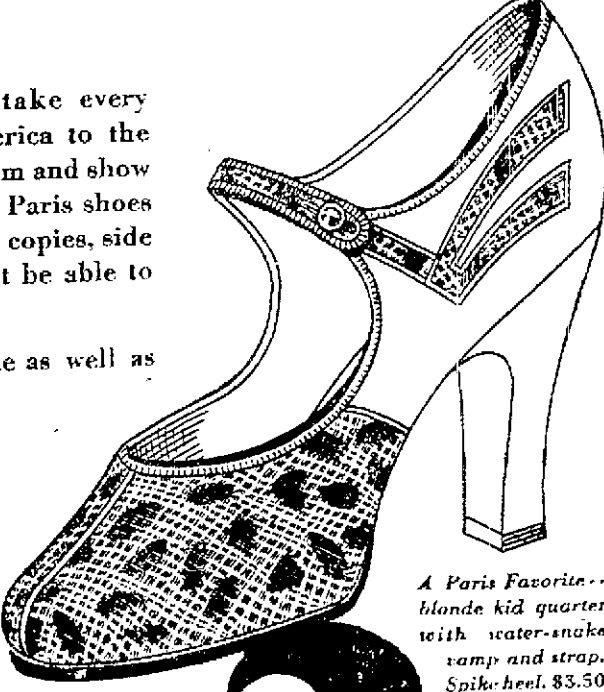

Reichel, who has been held to the grand jury for trial, is a nervous and seemingly undernourished youth with shifty, evasive eyes. He talks fast and has the nonchalance about him of an actor. Yet he quailed when police clapped him into a cell and brought him face to face with the reality of the situation which, to appease an unrequited love, they declare he concocted in the delirium of his melodramatic ambition.

Five Cent Gas Bill Project Is Not Taken Seriously At Capital

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 29.—Over the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, there may be some citizens who take seriously the proposal of Witherspoon to put a five cent tax on gasoline, but if there are, they are not members of the law making body of the state. Among the members the idea seems to prevail that the "gentleman from Franklin" will have his little joke.

Five cent gas in Pennsylvania, speaking in a tax way, at the present time is about as probable as seeing the capitol of the state moved out into the mountains. The proposed four cent tax has met with such rough treatment that it is anybody's guess what will happen to it, but five cent gas is out.

Make All Roads State
Witherspoon may have a serious move back of his proposal, or he may be attempting to ridicule all tax increase on gas. He appears to believe that it would be wise for the state to take over all roads, both improved and unimproved, throughout the commonwealth. Such an undertaking would require an immense sum of money and would revolutionize road building and maintenance in the state.

Among many of the members the idea seems to persist that Witherspoon is attempting to laugh the idea.

Highland U. P. Choir To Present Cantata On Sunday Evening

Quartet To Sing "Hail, The Victor" With the Chorister In Charge

The Easter cantata, "Hail, the Victor," by Alfred Wooley, will be given in the Highland U. P. church Sunday evening, March 31, at 7:45 by the church quartet under the direction of the church chorister, W. W. Campbell, with Mrs. Jessie Nelson Reed at the organ.

The quartet includes Miss Helen Allen, soprano; Miss Margaret Preston, contralto; George Anthony, tenor; and Luther Abraham, baritone.

Program:
Organ prelude, "Easter" (Harvey Gaul).

"God So Loved the World"—Mr. Anthony.
Behold I Show You a Mystery"—Quartet.

"Then Cometh Jesus"—Mr. Anthony.
"Gethsemane and Calvary"—Quartet.
From the Sixth Hour"—Mr. Abraham.

Out The Budget
Representative Fred Patterson of Beaver County has introduced a bill which would reduce materially the estimated needs of the highway department. Mr. Patterson believes that the department could cut its proposed replacement program, its estimated needs for machinery, and its salary budget.

Just what will happen to the four cent gas tax is problematical. Administration leaders are frankly fearful of it. State Treasurer Lewis is still swinging his axe on the proposal, and the recent move to make the additional cent effective for just one year, is an indication that the administration is none too optimistic over the outcome.

From now on until April 18th, the Legislature will be as busy as the proverbial one armed paper hanger. All the delay of the earlier weeks will be compensated with a mad rush that will see much meritorious legislation falling by the way side and the legislative machinery will be running in on high gear.

Along with four cent gas, the repeal of the Anthracite tax will be acted upon. The Administrative code, appropriations and a few other relatively important matters.

LOAFERS ARE AN EXPENSE.
The world has a right to object to idle shiftless people. Soon such people will be on the country or in jail, charged with crime, to be supported or hanged by money collected in the form of burdensome taxes. If the shiftless and idle can be saved early in their careers it means a saving in public expenses.—E. H. Howe's Monthly.

BOWMAN GUILTY IN RIVER DEATH

Life Term Result From Death Of Girl In Harrisburg

HARRISBURG, March 29.—Harry B. Bowman was convicted late Thursday of murder in the first degree in the drowning of Verna Klink, confectionery manager, in the Susquehanna river. They jury recommended life imprisonment.

The verdict was returned at 5:25 o'clock, less than an hour and a half after the jury retired. Bowman, scowling at the jurors, received their finding calmly.

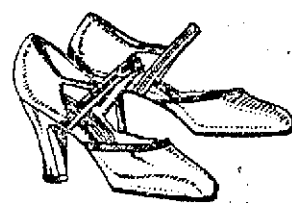

It was little more than two months after the night Miss Klink disappeared on January 25, when Bowman, the perfume salesman who had been taken into the woman's confidence, went back to prison to spend the rest of his life behind the bars for a crime he has steadfastly maintained he never committed.

By its verdict the jury upheld the chain of circumstantial evidence woven about the defendant by the state, which contended Bowman drowned Miss Klink after robbing her of the $400 which she told him she wanted to use to purchase the little store in which she worked. The woman's body was found in the river three weeks after she disappeared, the face badly bruised.

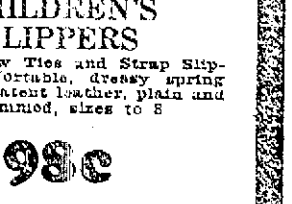

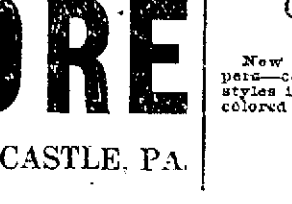

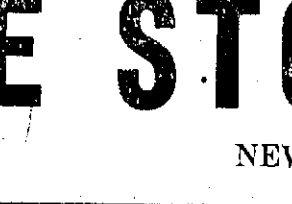

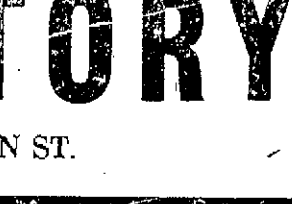

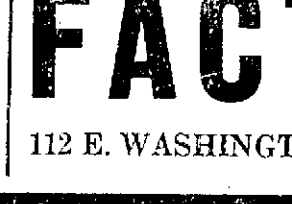

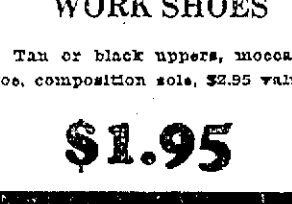

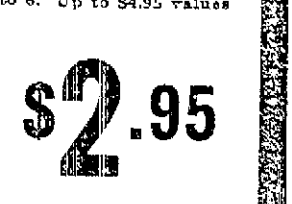

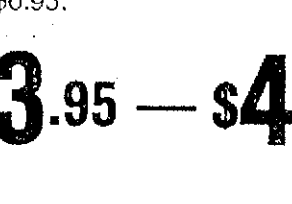

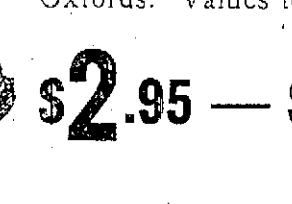

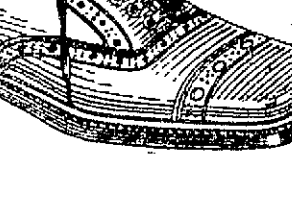

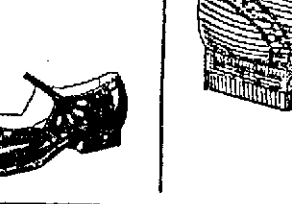

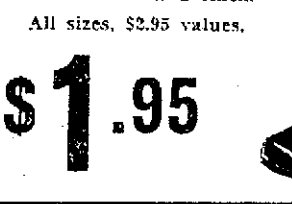

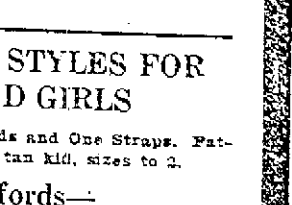

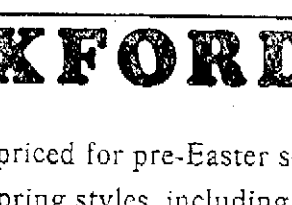

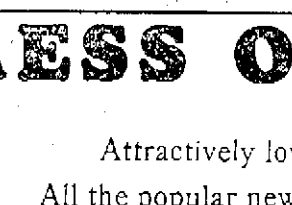

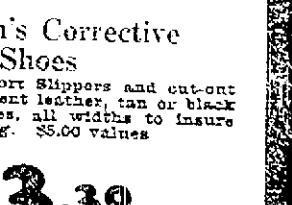

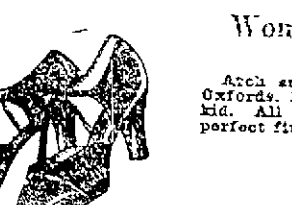

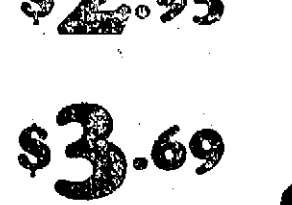

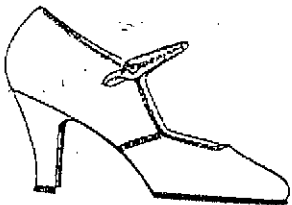

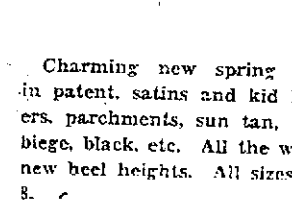

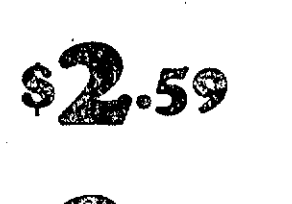

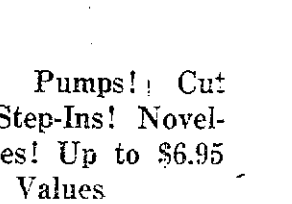

Bowman told the police she drowned, but insisted then and during his trial that she had entered into a suicide pact with him, but that he lost his nerve and waded out of the river.

If all were sensible, think how many who now cater to folly would be thrown out of work.

Bell Eligible For His Parole

Aged Carnegie Banker Now Eligible For Parole From Six Year Sentence

PITTSBURGH, March 29.—In four months, John A. Bell, bankrupt Carnegie banker and coal operator, will be eligible for parole from the Allegheny General hospital here where he has been serving a sentence of six and a half years for embezzlement of funds of the defunct Carnegie Trust Company. It was learned today.

Committed to the hospital May 18, 1927, Bell will have completed one-third of his sentence July 18. His sentence was to serve six and a half years in jail and pay a $19,000 fine and the cost of prosecution. Bell is eligible to petition the court for parole after serving one-third of his maximum sentence. Usually this petition is made to the judge who passed sentence on the convicted person. Judge John R. Henninger, of Butler county, who sentenced Bell is dead. Whatever judge is presiding during the summer term will pass on the petition.

Coast Guard Report On Ship Sinking Is Held In Confidence

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Contents of the report the coast guard made to the Canadian legation concerning the sinking by gunfire of the Canadian run schooner "Im Alone" were withheld today by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

The new state department chief declared at this first press conference this afternoon that until several separate investigations into the sinking of the ship are completed, he believes it inadvisable to make public the reports on hand.

Great Britain and France also have made representation to the department for a complete report of the sinking of the "Im Alone" in the Gulf of Mexico and the death of a French sailor. Stimson said he was studying the various legal phases that may arise from the incident under international law.

Era Of Prosperity, Says Atterbury In Washington Today

President Of Pennsylvania Railroad Has Luncheon With President Hoover

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The country is undergoing the greatest era of prosperity in its history, W. W.
Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, declared today, after a White House luncheon with President Hoover.

"I have never seen the country in such uniformly good condition," he declared. "In the area East of the Mississippi and North of the Potomac, which my road covers, industry is working from 90 to 95 percent full time."

It might be possible for the people

Fonseca May Have Last Laugh On Jinx

THE JINX THAT FOLLOWED LEW DURING MOST OF HIS CAREER HAS GIVEN HIM UP

By JACK SORDS
Sports Cartoonist-Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.
With Johnny Rodapp out of the game for at least a month, the result of a wrenched knee, the first base job with the Cleveland Indians falls on the veteran shoulders of Lew Fonseca.
It is strange that Lew should benefit by the ill fortune of another, for there is not a more thoroughly jinxed player in the game. Fonseca played great all-around ball when he broke into the National league with Cincinnati about 10 years ago, but was soon crippled by an accident on the field. He was traded to the Phillies in 1924, but his arm went bad and he was released outright to Newark.
There he regained the use of his whip and batted terrifically enough to cause the Indians to pay a lot of cash and three players for his services. But just as Lew appeared to be off on the right foot again, his old jinx reappeared and a number of misadventures culminated in a broken leg last summer greeted him.
Fonseca again hopes to take advantage of the break that put him back as a regular. Before his injury last year he played in 56 games and accepted 582 chances without an error.
At the same time averaging .327 with soon crippled by an accident on the field. He was traded to the Phillies
in 1924, but his arm went bad and he was released outright to Newark.

Michaelson Has Fled Chicago Is Reported Today

Representative Michaelson Not At Home; Faces Term For Liquor Smuggling

CHICAGO, March 29.—Congressman M. Alfred Michaelson of Chicago, who voted for the severe penalties of the Jones law and who was elected with the support of the Anti-Saloon League, was named in a removal warrant issued by U. S. Commissioner Walker for "smuggling taxable goods" into this country.

The warrant followed the indictment of Michaelson last October in Florida, a fact that became known today after an apparent indisposition by the federal government to prosecute the case.

It is charged Michaelson brought liquor into this country in a suitcase. The alleged smuggling was said to have been discovered when a suitcase the congressman was carrying in a depot "leaked" and his arrest by state prohibition officers followed.

Michaelson, who, according to his neighbors, was at his home here last night, today had apparently fled.
The doorbell of his home was unanswered.

District Attorney George E. Q.
Johnson said here today that Mi-chaelson faces five years imprisonment if he is convicted on the smuggling charge contained in the Florida indictment because of failure to pay the tariff on the taxable goods.

where he turned over Fasters to the army authorities at that place. He and Mrs. Dukes expected to be home late this evening.

Charge Violation Of Prohibition Act

Joe George, 37 South Beaver street, was arrested last night at his home
by Lieutenant of Police Pete Hillers, Detective Logan and Officers Lockard, Wallace and Alliger, when armed with a search warrant, they report they found twenty-one pints of illegal, nine empty pint bottles and an empty gallon jug in the kitchen cupboard of his home.

He was taken this morning before Alderman J. Lee Cooper where he was charged with violation of the Snyder act by Chief of Police C. C.
Hornor. He gave bail in the sum of $1,500 for his appearance at a hearing to be held later.

Absorption Of Radio Corporation Makes It World's Largest

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

NEW YORK, March 29.—The International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation today stood out as the world's largest communication system following its absorption of the communications business of the Radio Corporation of America.

The price paid was quoted today as $100,000,000 and only the actual payment of this amount remained to complete one of the most important commercial transactions of the decade. Payment will be made in stock.
The deal was completed in Paris.

The documents were signed by Owen D. Young, chairman of the Radio Corporation board of directors; David Sarnoff, vice-president and general manager of the R. C. A., and Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan and Company, financial agent for the I. T. and T.

The International Telephone and Telegraph Company now own cables, telegraph, telephone lines and wireless stations which circle the world.
Even before this new agreement, the corporation controlled the Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company and had been expanding its radio stations particularly in the Pacific ocean and throughout South America. It also been developing its European telephone system.

The R. C. A., with the sale of the communications system is expected to intensify its position as a manufacturing company of radio equipment, phonographs and talking films. It is understood television will play an important part in its future manufacturing plans.

CARS COLLIDE; BADLY DAMAGED

ELLWOOD CITY, March 29.—A Buick coach driven by J. F. Mc-Keough and a dairy truck driven by Harold Newton of the Newton Dairy came together at the corner of Lawrence avenue and Eighth street about 6:45 o'clock this morning.

The Buick was going west on Lawrence avenue while the milk truck was going south on Eighth street. The force of the collision sent the coach across the street where it hit one of the white way lights and almost completely wrecked the car.

The truck continued about a hundred feet where it was brought to a stop and was found to have lost one of the front wheels.
Both drivers escaped without injury.

Local Legion Post Will Receive Many Awards For Fine Membership Showing

Perry S. Gaston Post, No. 343, American Legion, is in line for many honors as a result of their fine showing in the recent membership drive, staged in honor of the tenth anniversary of the formation of the American Legion.

A large membership bulletin will be mailed to each post announcing the standing of all posts with a membership of 100 members or more.

A set of miniature colors will be presented to each post in the district, which shows the highest percentage of its 1928 membership.

Two points will count for all cards received between January 15 and April 1st, for the five membership cups to be presented. All cards postmarked April 1 will count in this contest.

All posts over the top will receive a distinguished Service Certificate from Department headquarters.

Watch charms will be presented to all district commanders showing an increase over their 1928 membership.

The local post will probably receive one of the awards mentioned above, as they have greatly exceeded their membership over last year.

An effort will be made during the

Monotony Of Work Is Social Unrest Cause

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, March 29.—Social unrest, stemming millions going daily to their work disconsolate and unsatisfied with the tenor of their existence; strikes and violence in industry, wasting millions of dollars a year of the economic resources of the country; all due to the routine of standardization, under the whip necessity of mass production.

This was the conclusion of Dr. Elton Mayo, Harvard economist, in addressing the Illinois Society of Mental Hygiene here.

"Monotony on work is the most urgent problem facing industry today," according to Dr. Mayo.

BOTTLED MESSAGE DRIFTS SIX YEARS IN PACIFIC

(International News Service)
HONOLULU, March 29.—After bobbing up and down in the waters of the Pacific ocean for nearly six years a sealed bottle containing a postcard addressed to the hydrographic office of the Japanese government was picked up recently at Waimanalo Beach on the windward side of the island.

The card states that the bottle and message were dropped overboard from the Japanese battleship Nagato on April 7, 1923 while that vessel was in Ise bay near Nagoya.

RECOVERY FROM GRIP IS ALWAYS SLOW WORK

Victims of grip or influenza are always left badly weakened. The acute catarrhal conditions from which they have suffered make recovery take a long time. There is only one common sense course to follow—get rid of the catarrh.

Dangers of Catarrh

Catarrh helped bring on the attack. It is present in most people. Many know it only when some acute attack shows how much it has undermined the general health. Catarrh is both insidious and dangerous.

World's Tonic conquers catarrh. More than that, it is a wonderful strength builder. With it, thousands have gotten rid of catarrh at the same time they were building up strength.

Those who are weakened by grip or influenza or cold are always subject to the ravages of catarrh. Build up strength with World's Tonic and overcome catarrh at the same time.

Mrs. Hoover Given Praise As Hostess

(International News Service)
BERKELEY, Cal., March 29.—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, new first lady of the land, will be one of the most charming hostesses the White House has known.

Calm, cheerful, pleasant, not easily ruffled, Mrs. Hoover has had experience in diplomatic circles the world over which especially fits her for her present position.

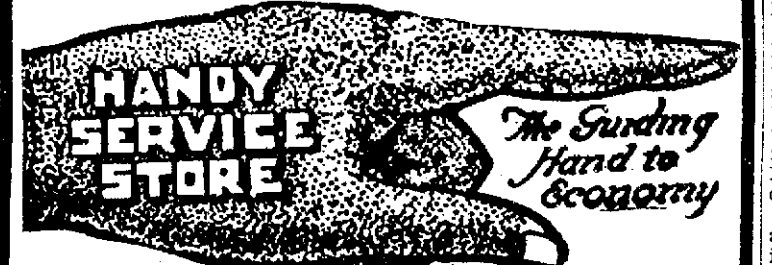

This is the opinion of Mrs. W. W. Campbell, wife of the president of the University of California, expressed today when discussing the social assets of her intimate friends.

"It is a great pleasure and satisfaction to look forward to the coming four years with Mrs. Hoover presiding in the White House. Her duties there will seem less arduous to her, I imagine, than they would to most women, for few have had so much experience as wide and varied as hers."

"Mr. Hoover's profession, and later his duties of an international nature, took them into many a foreign land, and Mrs. Hoover knows what it is to be hostess not only to her own country with guests of her own nationality, but in cities on other continents—Peking, London, Paris, and many others."

"In the last eight years which Mr. and Mrs. Hoover have spent chiefly in Washington, she, as wife of a member of the cabinet, has won universal admiration, for in addition to her recognized intellectual ability, she is noted for her tact and charm of manner, for those gentle and gracious ways that come not alone from wide experience, but from sincerity and kindness of heart."

Merger Improves Local Conditions

Grove City Plant To Operate More Steadily, Officials Assert Today

GROVE CITY, Pa., March 29.—The industrial benefits that will accrue from the merger of the Bessemer Gas Engine company of Grove City and the C. and G. Cooper company of Mt. Vernon, O., will soon be noticeable, Dr. E. J. Pithian, chairman of the board of the new company, reports.

Dr. Pithian states that a great volume of work from the Ohio plant will be brought here for handling soon. Officials of the Cooper company visited the local plant this week familiarizing themselves with the local equipment. J. E. Taylor, the Cooper plant superintendent, will make frequent visits here. Consolidation of the field agencies of the two companies has started. At Los Angeles and Tulsa the agencies have been merged.

B. B. Williams, president of the new concern, will maintain his offices at Mt. Vernon. It is learned. Just as soon as the merger plans are carried

For the last several years the Cooper company has been having $1,000,000 worth of casting and machine work done outside their plant, which the local plant can handle.

London Stirred As 'Colonel' Is Proven Mother

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

LONDON, March 29.—One of the most amazing masquerades in history, which the mother of two children posed successfully for seven years as a "married army officer" with a wife and son, has been revealed here with the arrest of "Colonel Sir Ivor Victor Gauntlett Bligh Barker" on a high court warrant for contempt of court.

Taken to Brixton prison, the daring impostor refused to undergo the customary medical examination, and at length confessed "he" was a woman.

Inquiries made by the authorities soon revealed that "Colonel Barker" was in fact Mrs. Valerie Smith, wife of an Australian, whom she married during the World War. The mother of a nine-year-old boy and eight-year-old daughter, she served in France during the war as a nurse and later as a truck driver.

Causes Sensation
The affair has caused a tremendous sensation in the bright light district, where for years the woman has been known to thousands of people, first as the owner of an intimate restaurant and later as a reception clerk at a big hotel.

As "Colonel Barker" she mixed freely with the hotel staff, was one of the leading lights in a semi-military organization, and lived in a Mayfair flat with a woman whom she introduced as her "wife." None suspected the masquerade until, as a sequel to bankruptcy proceedings in connection with the failure of the restaurant, the bogus "colonel" was arrested for contempt of court.

Friends honestly believed the "colonel" to be a "man" who had risen to the rank of colonel in the British army, and were dumfounded at the news of the denouement.

They are at a loss to explain the affair, but are inclined to believe the woman lost her husband several years ago and determined to masquerade as a man in order to obtain remunerative employment.

This explanation does not satisfactorily solve the most startling feature of the hoax, however. It is revealed that the woman "married" the daughter of a drug-store owner at St. Peter's Church, Brighton, in November, 1922, describing herself as "Victor Barker, 29, bachelor; independent; son of William Thomas Barker deceased."

Powerfully Built

About 35 years of age, nearly 5 feet tall and powerfully built, the woman during her masquerade successfully engaged in strenuous male sports without her real identity being discovered, even by her "wife" and the tailor from whom she regularly purchased male attire. Even the fact that she spoke in a high falsetto voice did not arouse suspicion.

Her intimates declare that, during the period of the masquerade as "colonel," she was always willing to talk about her war-time experiences, and was full of romantic stories concerning her exploits, for which she declared she had been awarded the Distinguished Service Order by King George.

According to the story she told to friends during the masquerade, she was in the Lancashire Regiment before the world war, and served on the staff at the War Office in London until 1918, when she went to France.

Servants at the "colonel's" Mayfair flat were loath to believe she was a woman, and the valet who had attended her during the lengthy masquerade declared that never had she displayed any feminine mannerisms. Her wardrobe consisted of lounge suits, evening dress, khaki uniforms in great profusion. She shaved regularly.

Her "wife," from whom she separated some months ago, is prostrated by the news of her real identity.

DR. C. C. GREEN TO MAKE ADDRESS

Will Be Speaker At New Wilmington High School Commencement; Other News

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, March 29.—Announcement was made here yesterday that the speaker for the local high school commencement exercises would be Dr. Clyde C. Green, superintendent of the New Castle schools. Dr. Green will deliver the principal address to the seniors on the evening of June 12.

Hand in hand with the announcement above came the information that Dr. W. Charles Wallace has consented to preach the baccalaureate sermon to the same New Wilmington graduating class. This service will be held Sabbath evening, July 9.

New Wilmington is fortunate indeed, is the opinion of the town people when discussing the selection of commencement exercises. Both Dr. Wallace and Dr. Green are very busy men and are in demand everywhere for commencement exercises.

NAME HONOR STUDENTS

Announcement that came from the college town yesterday was the report of the names of the honor students. Miss Kathryn McClure was awarded the valedictorian honor and Miss Jane Downie was made salutatorian of the senior class of 24 members.

Willis McGill ranked second in standings of the seven in the honor group but could not be awarded the salutatory honor because of the fact that he has only spent three years in the local school whereas the rule by which the first two honor positions are awarded demands that the student be enrolled in the school for his entire four-year course.

The ranking according to grades of the highest seven in the senior class is as follows: Kathryn McClure, Willis McGill, Jane Downie, Doris Rohrbaugh, Rebecca Wallace, Victor Smith and Jane Wallace. Beside being an honor student Willis McGill was a basketball letterman and Doris Rohrbaugh was captain of the recent girls' basketball team. Victor Smith was a football letterman and the Wallace girls were the official cheerleaders of the school. Kathryn McClure and Jane Downie are also very active in drama work.

SCHOOL PARTY

Wednesday evening the students and teachers of the high school were entertained at a party held in the school gymnasium. The party was given by the losing side in the recent magazine selling contest. Games, refreshments and stunts featured the evening.

The money collected from the magazine selling activities was surprisingly large and was turned over for the purchase of stage equipment for the school.

Mercer Criminal Court List Small

Fewest Number Of Cases In Many Months Will Be Up For Trial

MERCER, March 29.—The April term of criminal court, will be one of the smallest held in Mercer county in a great many months. District Attorney Leo McKay stated today.

To date, less than 50 transcripts have been filed at the office of the clerk of courts. Pleas have been entered in about half the number of cases presented, so that about only 20 cases listed so far, will actually come up for trial.

There have been less arrests for various crimes during the past three months, then have been made for several years. District Attorney McKay is unable to assign any reason for the remarkable change in conditions.

CHAMBERS COMING.

Judge James Chambers of Lawrence county will be here April 18 to hear arguments for new trials in the cases of Francis Patterson, charged with driving while drunk; and Tony Cincola, on a liquor charge.

The Patterson case, one of the hardest fought in years was tried here at the October sessions last and a verdict of guilty returned. Patterson of Allegheny county was arrested near Mercer following an accident in September.

25 COMMISSIONS.

Commissions have been issued to 25 Notary Publics in Mercer county so far this year. Applications are made through the office of the recorder. The commissions are issued by the state. A record of the number is handled by the Recorder William Jones who reports 75 notary publics operating in the county.

LONG IN OFFICE.

W. L. Kennedy of Grove City, 83, is one of the three remaining members of the board of county viewers appointed here 25 years ago by Judge A. W. Williams, when this board was organized.

Lewis Burnside, city engineer, of Sharon, and David A. Luton were appointed then also. The late J. J. Alexander, Robert Carrier, John Hunter, all deceased, were members of the board.

Mr. Kennedy remains in good health despite his advanced age. He reports for duty on every view to which he is assigned.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

The Story Of American Industry
Paper Making—(Concluded)

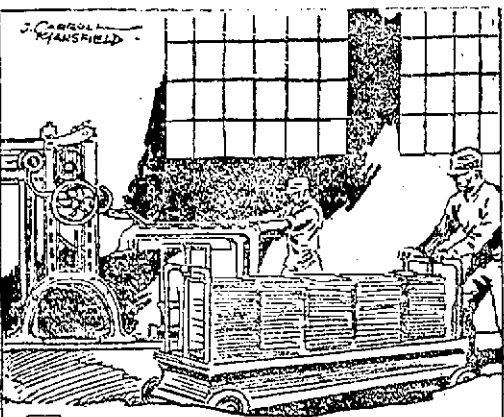

TODAY PAPER IS MADE IN A GREAT, LONG MACHINE (REALLY A SERIES OF MACHINES), CALLED A FOURDRINIER. PULP MADE FROM WOOD AND RAGS GOES INTO THE MACHINE AT ONE END, AND COMES OUT IN THE FORM OF FINISHED PAPER AT THE OTHER. THE FOURDRINIER WAS INVENTED BY A FRENCHMAN (ROBERT, 1799), GREATLY IMPROVED IN ENGLAND (1807), AND INTRODUCED INTO AMERICA IN 1825.

ABOVE ARE PICTURED SECTIONS OF A MODERN FOURDRINIER. THE FIRST PICTURE SHOWS THE END OF THE MACHINE WHERE THE WET PULP FROM THE TANKS IS RECEIVED. THE PULP IS POURED ON TO A MOVING BELT OF FINE WIRE MESH. A JERKING, SIDEWISE MOTION OF THE WIRE SPREADS THE PULP EVENLY. THE PULP IS CARRIED UNDER A HEAVY ROLLER WHICH PRESSES AND, AT THE SAME TIME, WATERMARKS THE SHEET.

THE ENDLESS SHEET OF PAPER MOVES ON FROM THE WIRE BELT TO ONE OF FELT, BY WHICH IT IS CONVEYED THROUGH A LONG LINE OF STEAM-HEATED ROLLERS. THESE DRY THE PAPER AS IT PASSES. THE MOVING SHEET IS NEXT CARRIED THROUGH A CUTTER THAT SLITS IT INTO DESIRED WIDTHS, AND THENCE TO A MACHINE WHERE IT IS COATED WITH A PREPARATION TO TOUGHEN THE PAPER AND GIVE IT A WRITING SURFACE.

THE PAPER THEN IS IRONED BETWEEN TWO HEAVY ROLLERS TO IMPART A SMOOTH FINISH TO IT. IT IS THEN WOUND IN A LARGE ROLL. AS A FINAL OPERATION IT IS CUT INTO SHEETS AND PILED ON A RECEIVING TABLE. IT IS THEN READY TO BE SHIPPED TO THE MARKETS, OR GIVEN SPECIAL FINISHES. THE NEWSPAPERS ARE THE GREATEST CONSUMERS OF PAPER.

Baseball Puzzlers

By CHARLES H. BARRETT
Big League Sport Writing For Central Press and New Castle News.

Sometimes extraordinary situations arise in the minor league games that may appear ridiculous to the fans in the large cities, but are very serious in the bushes.

There is the matter of equipment of the park as an example. If one of the bases in a major league game is cut, torn or even pushed out of place it is immediately replaced by the groundskeeper.

The little fellows cannot afford any such luxuries. They have to use their equipment until it simply falls apart. And then sometimes they use the pieces.

To explain matters let me tell of something that happened out in the West Nebraska league last year. This is only a small circuit and operates on a shoestring.

It probably would be embarrassing to the owners to mention the team at whose park this game was played. A scout, you know, cannot afford to make enemies, so I'll let it pass.

Anyway the bases used were quite antiquated, but early in the game a runner slid back to first and ripped open some stitches that left quite a gap. This was probably an every-day occurrence.

But it did pave the way for an unusual episode that occurred an inning or so later. A batter beat out a slow roller and when the infielder's throw was low the ball slipped out of the first sacker's glove and lodged within the bag.

Realizing the situation the base runner kept on to second and to third when the ball suddenly refused to come out. Then came the funny part. When the first baseman, unable to extract the ball, saw the runner start to home, he snatched up bag and ball and racing across the diamond tagged the runner with the whole base.

Tommy Loughran Wins Popular Decision In Battle With Walker

Philadelphia Batter Never In Danger Of Losing Crown To "Industrious" Mickey

CHICAGO, March 29.—Caesar was ambitious and Brutus "cut him down." Napoleon was going great until his ambition for higher titles led him into a match with Wellington. Just how these common gentlemen felt may be learned first hand today from Mickey Walker, well-named "toy" bulldog, and his field marshal, Jack Kearns, although it is a well known fact that neither Caesar nor Bonaparte received $50,000 in any kind of money to appease them for miffing their greatest "shot."

Walker, present middleweight champion and former welterweight title holder, aspiring to the light heavyweight crown of Tommy Loughran, was "put back in his place" last night by the Philadelphia champion in a way that indicated Walker will be no serious threat to the light heavy division as long as it is dominated by a man as clever as Loughran.

Verdict Popular Tommy retained his title by decision at the end of ten rounds. He was favored by both judges, which made Referee Davey Miller's verdict unnecessary for a verdict. Despite the dissenting opinions of several ringside experts, most of them from out of town, the verdict was a popular one.

The bout was the main event on the opening card of Paddy Harpoon's mammoth West Side stadium. Upwards of 20,000 fans turned out for last night's opening.

The main event was disappointing to many who expected a knockdown and draw-out affair. It was anything but that—not because Walker didn't try hard enough but because Loughran, with a valuable title at stake, was naturally on the defensive and satisfied to pile up points while skillfully warding off the wild rushes of the slugger.

Walker Little Wild Tommy was at no time in real distress. The same may be said of Walker, but Loughran kept jabbing that left in Mickey's face and time after time he crossed over a hard right to the head. Tommy is no man killer, but as a master boxer and ring strategist he has few if any equals. Mickey made himself ridiculous the few times he tried to box with the champion. Walker landed a few solid blows, but for everyone that broke through Tommy's guard, a dozen others went wild.

The challenger's best rounds were in the middle of the fight, from the fourth to the sixth inclusive. Tommy fished him in the first three, but from the sixth on, after Walker had unleashed his lightning and failed, it was Loughran by a mile. The champion's best round was the eighth, when he connected with his right cross at will. If Tommy had a real punch, Walker would have gone out in this stanza.

Loughran Improves As the rounds wore on, Loughran improved and appeared to freshen, while Mickey was growing more weary with each furor, missing blow after blow. Mickey seemed to realize that after he gave Tommy "the works" in the fifth round and the champion out-generated him, all hope for his third world's title had gone glimmering. Tommy was in some distress in this thrilling fifth round, but he cleverly staved off that much heralded "finish act" that Walker is famous for.

Tommy had Walker in about the same spot in the eighth, but the champion didn't have the power in his right arm to execute the "coup de grace."

Loughran's weight was announced as 173 1/2, nearly two pounds under the limit. It is believed he was weakened to some extent in getting down. Walker scaled 165, of Sioux City and Chicago, and Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen "Assassin," put up the most entertaining fight on the card. They staged the ten round semi-windup and Griffiths carried off the decision. They weighed in at 174 each.

Thousands of fight fans will jam the covered saucer. They're coming from Erie, Meadville, Youngstown, Greenville, Franklin, Beaver Falls, Ellwood, New Brighton, Ambridge and they'll go away from the big bowl with a feeling of having seen one of the fastest battles ever staged between two human beings.

Both Training Hard. Flyweight Champion Wolgast is training in New York City. Davies is "prepping" at Charleroi. The weight will not affect the stamina of either flyweight. Wolgast will crawl between the ropes at about 110. Davies will weigh between 112 and 113 pounds. Neither is losing a minute's chance to practice their jab, cross, hooks and fancy steps and everyone will agree their repertoire contains many.

There is considerable interest here in the go. One element is pro-Wolgast and the other pro-Davies. For this reason Davies-Wolgast fight character is heard wherever one goes. To frank it is the uppermost topic under discussion in the city today. Mon and women who scarcely ever dream of discussing boxing are now engaged in trying to figure out the best man. They'll not figure until after the bout.

Advance sales have exceeded the expectations of "Game Bill" Jolly, the man who took a chance and built a bowl erection on a high plane for the erection of the arena. Since the opening of the arena some mighty interesting matches have been staged and the coming classic is but a climax to the many good tilts and if attendance Monday warrants the fans can expect to see some "big shots" here during the summer months.

Lightning Action When Wolgast Battles Willie

IT HAS BEEN SAID THAT LIGHTNING NEVER STRIKES IN THE SAME PLACE TWICE; YET, HERE ARE TWO LIGHTNING BOLTS WHO WILL MEET - IN THE SAME RING!

By ED FRITZ Chicago has had its "Loughran-Walker" and what a fight it was, but it will not be as fast and perhaps not as sensational as the coming ten-round pugilistic classic between the phantom Midget Wolgast and the marvelous Willie Davies calendared for the Jolly bowl here Monday night.

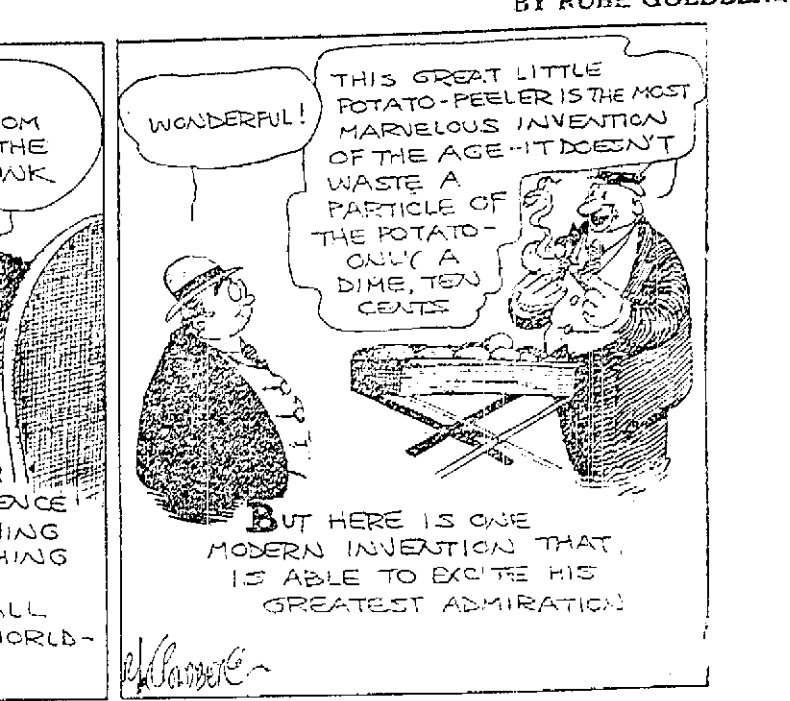

The flyweights, likened to lightning streaks by Jack Bryan, the local caricaturist, have been in strict and faithful training. They are bitter rivals. Wolgast carries the Pennsylvania flyweight crown on his head and Davies is anxious to take it from Wolgast. Each has fought sensational fights here against the same foe.

Thousands of fight fans will jam the covered saucer. Looking Forward To A Pennant

By QUIN HALL.

Joe McCarthy and his Chicago Cubs are already conceded a great chance to cop the race last year and did finish in the three-hole with an infield which was nothing to write home about. Over the Winter the Cubs reached out and grabbed Rogers Hornsby one of the slickest second basemen in the business. A fellow like Hornsby operating at the keystone sack is likely to lift up the entire infield to a point where it will bring the Cubs in ahead of the pack.

McCarthy is putting his crowd through their paces in California and while your roving reporter is busy among the Florida training camps reports from Los Angeles indicate that the Chicago gaffer has all of the appearance of a stellar ball club. It's a cinch that with Hornsby to bolster it up the Cubs will be much tougher to beat this year than last and the he can make. Of course he likes to show a profit but he has his heart set on seeing a flag wave over his north side ball yard in Chicago and he has been spending considerable money in building up the club in hopes of checking in with a pennant winner. This year he seems to have a great chance to cop.

If the Cubs figure it is going to be a walk-away they are likely to become overconfident and blow the chance. One of McCarthy's big jobs it would seem is keeping his club up on its toes no matter how far they get ahead. There is enough strength on the Pirates, Giants and Cardinals to help him in this task and the other clubs seem to be stronger than a year ago.

Outside of his infield McCarthy had a pretty nifty ball outfit in 1928. He had a heavy hitting outfield, good pitching and lots of power and punch back of the plate. He still retains all the strength he had last year plus Hornsby, Woody English, the Cubs high-priced shortstop should strike his stride this season and, with Hornsby on second the whole infield will be much stronger. If you can't tab the Cubs in you can at least figure them mighty near the top at the finish.

Chicago Criminals Not Bad As Painted

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, March 29.—Chicago is not a welter of smoking pistols. Violent gang wars, remorseless underworld feuds-to-the-death, needled beer and "alky."

It's citizens, suffering from a crime complex, and a desire to speak in superlatives at all times when mentioning this young giant of America metropolises, have themselves brought the name of Chicago into disrepute.

Dr. Lee Alexander Stone, criminologist, makes these conclusions after a careful study of conditions here. "Chicago stands forth in the number of homicides per 100,000 population," Dr. Stone says. "In ninety-three years it has grown from 100 persons to three and a quarter millions, and such growth demands a large stage, naturally, resulting in a mind among its inhabitants that permits of nothing but superlatives when speaking of anything. Thus Chicago citizens have given the city a 'crime complex.'"

Armored Car Used By Denver Banks

(International News Service)
DENVER, March 29.—Danger of bank carrier and payroll robberies was lessened here recently when a local detective agency put into service an armored automobile for transporting currency. It is one of several operated between Kansas City and the Pacific coast.

The car is armed with a machine gun, two sawed-off shotguns and a .351 caliber rifle. The body of the car is constructed of eight-gauge bullet-proof steel and the driver is surrounded with inch thick bullet-proof glass. The car is propelled by an eight-cylinder motor and is equipped with a powerful siren for use in emergencies.

Chief of Police R. F. Reed gave his hearty approval of the new plan.

Is Your Wife Driving the Car on Risky Old Tires?

This is the most dangerous season of the year to risk tire trouble. Now is when new Goodyears should be put on. We make it easy to do this.

Is your wife driving on old thin tires that are easily punctured, subject to blowouts and have little or no non-skid traction left on them?

Even if smash-ups are avoided, any moment she may find herself miles from home with a "flat" on a cold, wet day or evening—the necessity of walking to a phone—delay.

You will agree that just before Spring, when driving conditions are the worst, is the most sensible time to protect a car and its occupants with new Goodyears. New, deep-cut, sure-footed

Also, you can get more for your old unsafe tires now than a little later after you've "shot them to pieces."

Drop in—talk it over—let's see what kind of a deal we can make on the new 1929 Goodyears—finest tires in history at lowest prices in 30 years and lifetime guaranteed! See us before any troubles happen to make you everlastingly sorry for letting the matter slide.

Legislature To Have Examiner

Representative Sterling Introduces Measure To Create Examiner Post

WOULD SERVE AS OFFICIAL OBSERVER

By ROBERT F. GORMAN
International News Service Staff
HARRISBURG, March 29.—With provisions already made in the fiscal code, passed by the legislature this week, and the administrative code, now in committee, for the examination of financial records of governmental departments, boards and commissions, the legislature has not placed itself in line for a financial examiner of its own.

The bill introduced in the house this week by Representative Sterling, Philadelphia, would give the legislature a legislative examiner of finance and revenue. The legislative examiner's duties and powers would be separate and distinct from the duties imposed upon the powers granted the auditor general, the state treasurer and the budget secretary or any other officer of the commonwealth.

All departments, boards and commissions of the state government would be required to furnish the legislative examiner such information regarding their powers, duties, activities, organization, financial transactions and methods of business as he may from time to time desire and he would have access to all books, papers and documents in the state government. Information gathered by the examiner would be made part of the permanent records of the legislative reference bureau.

To Make Investigations.
While the duties of the examiner would apply generally to the work of the appropriations committees of the house and senate, he could make investigations for any committee having jurisdiction over revenues.

The purpose of the Sterling bill, according to those who have studied it, is to enable the legislative branch of the government to study the needs of the commonwealth, financially, independently of the state's executive branch. Likewise the work of the examiner, in a measure, would serve as a check on the commonwealth's budget officers and auditors.

Provision is made in the measure for the election of the examiner at a joint session of the house and senate. The term would be for ten years at a salary of $5,400 per annum. In case of a vacancy between sessions an appointment would be made by the presiding officers of the two houses.

Divorce Hearings Draw Large Crowd To Court House

Wives Detail Acts Of Cruelty Alleged To Have Been Practiced By Husbands

Both court rooms were well filled with litigants and witnesses when Judges Hildebrand and Chambers convened divorce court this morning. There are 43 applicants on the list.

The first case taken up before Judge Hildebrand was that of Ethel M. Rice against Charles W. Rice in which cruel and barbarous treatment was alleged by Mrs. Rice. She gave a detailed account of their family troubles, citing the alleged abuse to which she had been subjected.

The next case taken up was that of Pearl J. Hogue against Peter L. Hogue. This was also a case in which it was alleged that the matrimonial ship had been wrecked on the shoals of discord. Mrs. Hogue recited a list of alleged cruelties.

Before Judge Chambers, the following cases were taken up: J. H. Daugherty against Anna Daugherty, in which desertion was charged; Iva Foster against Lawrence Foster, cruel and barbarous treatment and desertion; Dorothy Cowperwaite against Frank Cowperwaite, desertion; John E. Dougherty against Laura J. Dougherty, adultery; Pauline Friskhorn against John Friskhorn, cruelty and Anna G. McConaughy against Elmer E. McConaughy.

In all of the cruelty cases the testimony was much the same, some of the plaintiffs telling of discord which had resulted in blows being struck.

Hearings are still in progress and will take up the greater part of the day.
